Parade of Fashions Slated for Hi-Fi Show

Loden green, smokey-green, ginger spice, acorn, porcelain blue, surf green and fiesta red were among the new fashion colors for fall. Skirt length remain about the same with collar interest seen in small detachable fur pieces.

These highlights and other fashion notes for fall were learned from Mrs. Ralph "Tim" Moore, of Moore's Women's Wear, in discussing the styles to be shown at the Catholic Daughter of America fashion show next Monday. The local Court St. Catherine is staging this parade of fashions at Nativity parish hall, beginning at 8 p.m.

The suit is coming back "into its own," with lots of plaids and pleats in use. Surface fabrics, basket weaves and tweeds are preferred rather than piece-dye; diagonal tweeds, mohair boucle, houndstooth and other hard fabrics are popular, according to Mrs. Moore.

The styles give the impression of simplicity, even though considerable draping, tucking and other maneuvering of the fabric has been done to achieve "the simple look." The small fur trim, of leopard, fitch and mink, is utilized in collars mainly and cuffs to a lesser extent. Of the fall hats, Mrs. Moore said many are of the cloche type, with the derby "real big" for the tailored look with suits.

Modeling at Monday night's event will be Mmes. Robert Klaesges, Paul McDonald and Elles E. Cook of the CDA, and Mmes. George Post, Milton Youngken, Don Carlson, Charles Bennett, Jean Bandoli and the Misses Claudia Smith and Joyce Cannon of "Mannequins of Torrance." Don Thomlin will show men's wear from his Lomita shop.

Mrs. Robert Aguilar, general chairman, has the assistance of two other officers, Mmes. J. W. Crew and Frank J. Quinn, in arranging for the fashion show. Other CDA members are busy with some phase of the planning include Mmes. Louis Derouin, Noel G. Hayward, Gerald Young, William McDonald, Richard Olson, Andrew Rabel, Frank R. Weston, Tom Moore, John Melville, Paul Hingten, Charles Allen and Marie Wubbker.

"Hi-Fi in Fashions" is the theme of the show, with musical insignia being used in the decorating. Tickets are available from members of the organization or at the door that evening, according to Mrs. Crew, ticket chairman.

FASHION IN PRINT for fall is highlighted by this wool jersey and orlon draped dress with three quarter length sleeves modeled by Mrs. Don C. Carlson of the Torrance Mannequins. The stylish creation will be part of the Court St. Catherine fashion show slated for Monday at the Nativity parish hall at 8 p.m. Moore's Women's Wear, 1274 Sartori Ave., will furnish the fall selections.
