REACTION

EN GARDE, MEN; TUESDAY WILL BE RADAR DAY HERE

Radar enforcement of traffic speed limits will start Tuesday. Torrance drivers were reminded today by Lt. Don Nash, head of the police traffic division.

Meanwhile, the radar car has been getting motorists accustomed to its presence. No citations have been issued on the strength of radar, but these reactions were reported by Officer Don Hartel:

James Fields of Torrance declared he didn't believe he was going quite so fast as the machine indicated, but upon seeing the radar tape, had no complaint.

Johannes Rademaker of Lomita had been on a PT boat during World War II and as a result is alive to radar's advantages, both as a life saver and a traffic stopper. He agreed it's a good thing.

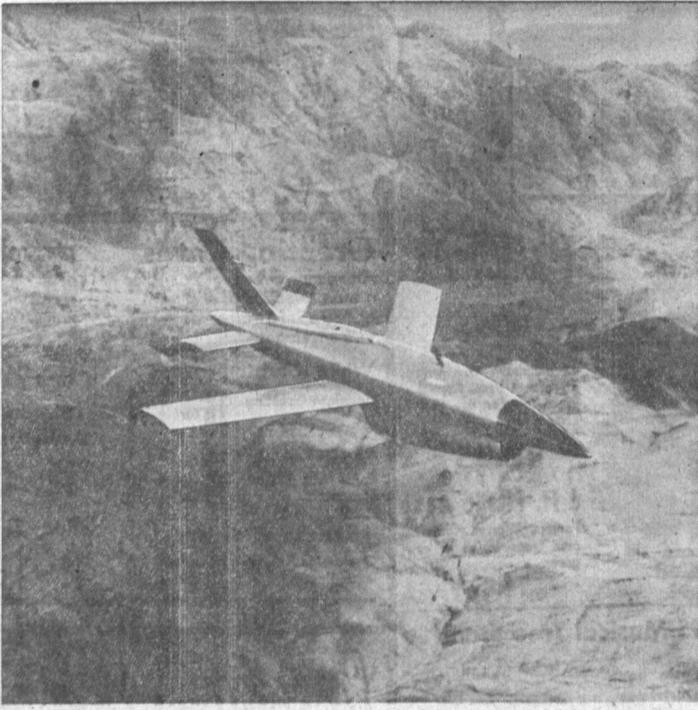

Edward Zakrajsek of Oxnard brings loads of high - test gas ashore through the fog by radar. He didn't need to be convinced.

In the department of utter coincidence, Eileen Osborne of Hollywood Riviera 11 years ago had been stopped — and cited — for excessive speed in Pensacola, Fla. She was Christmas-shopping with a woman friend.

Last week radar stopped her here. She was Christmas shopping. She was accompanied by the same friend.

She had not seen her friend during the 11-year interval. And this time, no citation.

North High Seniors to Give 'Charley's Aunt' This Week

'Charley's Aunt,' a delightful comedy, will be staged Thursday, Friday, and Saturday in the North High School cafeteria, according to Craig Thompson, publicity manager for the annual senior play. The play takes place in the 1890s. It is a comedy about two undergraduate students who have their friend Lord Babberly dress as Charley's aunt from Brazil to impress their girl friends before the girls leave for the country. This proves to be funny and difficult for Babberly but things get even more complicated when the real aunt shows up. Tickets are on sale through Friday at North High. The cast includes Jack Sparber, Alvin Bybee, Barbara Parich, Linda Harris, Janet Klute, Gary Mowrey, Jerry Duncan, Gary Borskein, Monnie Dehumin, and Harold Spivak. B. L. Hofer, drama instructor, directed the play. Assisting are Jane Zerfas, stage manager, and Larry Dearing, technical director.

Loans Expedited in Small Towns

FHA's certified - agency program is especially designed to provide FHA mortgage insurance to home buyers in communities of 20,000 or fewer in and areas remote from insuring offices. ## Coliseum Report

(Continued from page A-7) curred during their games, Supervisor Hahn said. Supervisor Hahn is a member of the Coliseum Commission's baseball committee and was instructed to review the Dodger books by the Commission. The Dodger rent for the 1958-59 seasons returned almost $400,000 which paid for the cost of the new seats in the Sports Arena. Supervisor Hahn said that he hopes that the rental paid by the Dodger next season can be used to replace the straight - backed benches in the Coliseum, which have not been replaced in 25 years, with modern, comfortable, individual - type seats. The entire community has benefited and will continue to benefit from the Dodgers playing in the Coliseum. Supervisor Hahn originated the idea of major league baseball in the Coliseum and was instrumental in bringing the Dodgers to Los Angeles.

UNLIMITED PARKING DECALS DUE

Unlimited - parking stickers for downtown lots with a two-hour maximum are being designed by the city engineer's office and are expected to be issued soon.

The decals will be issued by the city license inspector's office at a cost of $4 a month. The color will be changed monthly.

The action is expected to ease the plight of merchants and employees who must park downtown all day. They will be issued to anyone who pays the fee.

Creighton Opens New Showrooms in Redondo Beach

Bill Creighton, South Bay Triumph dealer for many years, has opened new showrooms at 501 N. Pacific Coast Highway, Redondo Beach.

George Sherlock is manager of the agency, which features Borgwards and Triumph sports and family cars.

Creighton, who has a Renault agency at Hermosa Beach, confines his enterprises exclusively to imported cars.

Polish State Ballet to Appear Downtown

Slask, the Polish State Folk Ballet opening at the Philharmonic Auditorium Dec. 22, will be a thrilling highlight on the list of music and dance attractions brought to America for the first time.

One hundred singers and dancers, costumed in native dress, will give six performances, Dec. 22, 23, 24, 25 and 26, at 8:30 p.m., with a matinee Dec. 26 at 2:30.

Hanging-Signal Modification to Be Tested Soon

A modification of present hanging-lantern signals that are causing one near-crash after another, will be tested at Torrance Blvd. and Cota. The alteration entails addition of two red lights in all four directions on the theory they will be more perceptible. Designed by the city engineer's office, the contraption found esteem in the City Council, since it costs but $150.

Company of Mary Hospital Will Be Dedicated Dec 12

With interior finishing now being completed at the $3,500,000 Little Company of Mary Hospital, Mother M. Patricia, hospital administrator, announced this week that dedication ceremonies will be held Dec. 12 at the hospital, 4101 Torrance Blvd. James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, archbishop of Los Angeles, will officiate. The hospital will be operated by the Little Company of Mary, an order of nursing sisters founded in England in 1887. Dr. John A. Wilson, Manhattan Beach, will head a medical staff of about 175 physicians. First patients will be admitted about Jan. 1.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Whooping Cough Deadly To Children Under 3 Years

Whooping cough (pertussis) is a widely prevalent disease that may occur at any season of the year. Although adults are not immune to the infection, it usually occurs in childhood and is most dangerous in children under three years of age. Indeed statistics show that the younger the child the greater the hazard, with most of the deaths occurring in infants under six months of age. For the most part, these deaths are preventable by the use of pertussis vaccine, which is effective in nearly 80 per cent of immunized individuals. Even if the disease does develop in children who have received the vaccine, the attack tends to be less severe.

Unfortunately, no specific drug has been found for the treatment of whooping cough, although certain of the antibiotic drugs and hyperimmune gamma globulin serum have been reported to shorten the course of the illness and lessen its severity. Hyperimmune serum is also when it is administered soon after the individual is exposed to the infection. Whooping cough continues to be a major health problem largely because parents fail to appreciate the seriousness of the disease and to take the necessary measures for its prevention.

Vaccination against whooping cough consists of three injections given a month apart, starting at the age of one or two months. This immunizing series must be completed before the child is adequately protected. A booster dose is recommended at the end of one year and again when the child reaches three or four years of age. In some circumstances, a booster dose may also be given when the child enters school.

Immunization during early infancy is of extreme importance, for the duration of the active protection is generally sufficient to carry the child past the most dangerous first three years of life. The illness begins seven to 14 days after exposure to the infection. Although one attack usually confers immunity, second attacks of the disease in the same individual are not unknown. The first symptoms are those of a common cold, and this condition may last for a week or two before merging into the proximal whooping and vomiting stage. In a typical case the coughing and vomiting stage may last from three to six weeks, and the weakening effects of the illness are very apparent. It is often several months before normal strength is recovered, and it is during this period of weakness that complications, such as pneumonia, may occur. Sometimes the whooping paroxysm never develops, and this

Air Crash

It also was disclosed that Sjostrand frequently had checked out planes by himself and apparently the last one was a Cessna. The crashed plane was an Aerona.

According to Compton Police Lt. William Church, a search of the surrounding area for nearly 12 hours failed to turn up another body. Sjostrand had been instructor in the body shop at El Camino College until he went into business for himself recently.

In 1953 there were 335,092 visitors to the California Museum of Science and Industry.
