

Yule Outdoor Display Contest Awards Due Wednesday

Awards for the first Outdoor Christmas Display Contest, sponsored by the Torrance Junior Chamber will be made Wednesday night, Dec. 23, a spokesman for the younger men's merchant group announced today. The contest judging will take place between today and Wednesday by the Junior Chamber. All residents of Torrance may compete by calling the Jaycees attention to their outside display. The contest is divided into religious and novelty categories and the awards will be plaques.

HORSE PRIZE—Christmas Eve some lucky child at the Tight Cinch Western Store, 2205 Pacific Coast Hwy., will receive this horse and saddle as a gift from Mrs. John Gregory (above), owner of the shop. Second prize is a genuine western saddle.

Women appear to be more receptive than men when urged to visit their doctors regularly for checkups, according to an American Cancer Society report. American Cancer Society research with laboratory animals indicates that more than one kind of cancer can be caused by the same virus.

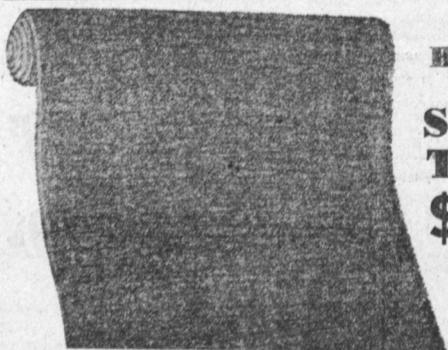

NINTH GRADERS Sandy Crabtree and Mike Sullivan help pile up canned goods collected by Torrance High home room classes and sponsored by the student council. Some 30 cases of canned food was gathered and is being turned over to the bureau of public assistance for needy families of Torrance.
