Magic Chef Market Plans Extras for Homemakers

What does a woman want in a super market? The planners of the huge new Magic Chef Market, soon to open at Hawthorne and Sepulveda in the Del Amo Shopping Center, know—because they asked.

Here are some of the requests made at a recent meeting of Southern California housewives and community leaders, and the answers which Magic Chef will give them.

"Will we be able to get special cuts of meat—not just the pre-packaged meats?"

Yes. There'll be a large variety of ready-packaged meats on hand, but if the needed item isn't available the touch of a button will summon a Magic Chef meat cutter, who will provide any special cut desired.

"How about an express line, so people with last-minute small purchases can get in and out in a hurry?" It'll be there.

"Will you ever run specials on amounts of groceries suited to small families?"

Yes. Magic Chef will remember both the large family and the small one in planning its specials. Mix-or Match specials will be particularly helpful to small families with several different products offered at a group price. "I'd like an on-premises baker, so I can order special-occasion cakes besides getting the usual staples."

Magic Chef will have its own bakery where customers can order beautifully decorated cakes as well as fresh-from-the-oven breads, and rolls.

"Will there be some place in the market where I can sit down to rest?"

There will be benches where the shopper can catch a moment's rest; also a sit-down restaurant where she can stop for a cup of coffee with a friend—or order a full meal.

Other extras include an air curtain on the dairy case to eliminate doors—and do away with jostling and jam-ups caused by too many carts and too many doors in the same place.

A service delicatessen for specialties.

A courtesy Booth providing a one-stop place where customers can cash checks, pay utility bills, buy money orders.
