CAPTAIN ALLAN C. F. ALBERT (left), master of the Swedish motorship "Amacita," and O. O. Flood, superintendent of transportation for Competition Motors Distributors, Inc., discuss unloading of 1000 Volkswagen passenger cars and trucks and Karman Ghia coupes and convertibles on board. Two vessels unloaded earlier bring to a total of 2087 the number of VW's arriving this week, the largest shipment of VW's ever to arrive at one time in Southland harbors.

Chemical Firm Expands
Local Styrene Facilities
Shell Chemical Company today announced that it is expanding its styrene production facilities at Torrance. Styrene is a chemical intermediate used in making plastics and general purpose synthetic rubber.

J. P. Cunningham, general manager of the Torrance installation, said today that the current expansion program, scheduled for completion early in 1961, will raise the plant's capacity to 210 million pounds a year.

Shell has been in the styrene market since 1955, when it purchased the synthetic rubber plant at Torrance from the government. The styrene facilities, which are part of the integrated operation, had a rated capacity of 125 million pounds a year in 1955. Completion of the new construction program will mark a total expansion of nearly 70 per cent since the plant has been in private operation.

Raw materials for styrene are benzene and propane, which are produced in large quantities in Southern California.

Firm Appoints Resident to Local Sales Staff
Appointment of John L. Williams, Torrance, to the sales staff of Wyeth Laboratories, Philadelphia pharmaceutical concern, has been announced by Stuart V. Smith, vice president and director of sales.

Williams, who was formerly associated with Testagar & Co., Inc., attended La Sierra College. His headquarters with Wyeth will be in Torrance. He resides at 206 W. 214th St.

Army Sends Man to Texas Base
Richard D. Gonzales, army private whose wife, Edna, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dell Gonzales, live at 177 E. 214th St., recently was assigned to the 2nd Armored Division at Fort Hood, Tex.

Gonzales, a member of Company A of the division's 142nd Signal Battalion, entered the army in January and completed basic training at Fort Ord.

The 24-year-old soldier attended Morton High School, Cicero, Ill.

Gas Company Perfects Meter Checking Device
A new device, perfected by Southern California Gas Co. engineers, is being put to use in this area as a convenience to shift-workers, working wives and others who are seldom home during the daytime.

With the new device, gas company servicemen can change gas meters without turning the gas off or entering the house to relight pilot lights, according to Southwest Division manager, George Babbe.

"Advantage of the new changer," he said, "is the convenience it offers to customers who find it difficult to be home during the daytime. It should also cut our costs by eliminating repeat calls." Babbe explained that meters are changed periodically and tested in the gas company's laboratory. "The bulk of these meter changes will still be made under our regular system of entering the house when the customer is at home."

EASILY ALTERED
Wood frame buildings are easily altered or repaired because openings can be cut and additions made without difficulty.

BETTER LOOKING
Because they are better looking and have better insulating qualities, wood windows were preferred by homemakers almost two to one in a recent national survey.

MONEY VS. EDUCATION

Once in a while a hot community issue hits the front page loaded with facts and financial figures guaranteed to stun and confuse the 100,000 residents of this industrial community.

Some city leaders, elected to office by a handful of spirited citizens to watch over and protect their rights, and the Planning Commission of Torrance, are in unison to stop the land-grabbing tendencies of the city's school board headed by Dr. J. H. Hull.

The issue, as printed on page one of Sunday's Press, is "a twenty-six acre plot of land at the southern end of the Torrance Navy Depot," which the city and the school board went for almost simultaneously. Hull's forces wanted the land "to use in expanding the athletic facilities at Torrance High School, which is less than half as big as the other school campuses."

The city fathers and the planning commission want the land used for industrial expansion, loudly proclaiming that the property is more valuable the way it is now zoned. Bert Lynn, the commission's head and George Powell, planning director, stated that there are some fifty companies who have made inquiries regarding the site.

Federal Agency Nixes School

Dr. Hull and his board were given a jolt last week when the federal government's General Service Agency, an organization in charge of disposing surplus property, elected to refuse to make the land available to them declaring that the property be offered for public sale.

This move made anti-school leaders and the planning commission a happy group, however, Dr. Hull and his aides did not take the decision by GSA as final. The latter fired off telegrams to numerous federal big-wigs, including Vice President Richard Nixon.

Either Way, Public Suffers

With more than 25,000 youngsters in city schools, the tax burden is already creating some panic among the thousands of taxpayers. Yet, with the influx of an expanding citizenry, the school board must seek land cheaply now in order to make education facilities available to future children at the lowest possible price. With land becoming scarce in Torrance, school officials fear that property purchased privately would hurt the taxpayers more because of the huge cost.

Dr. Hull and the board have a point there in their favor. Land must be gotten cheaply to alleviate some of the financial load carried by the local residents.

On the other hand, no extra brilliance is needed to deduce that were the land sold to private interests the population as a whole would benefit. The industrial firm occupying the land would create jobs and pay the city a nice bundle in taxes.

Whether the school board is able to reverse the decision of GSA, or if another industrial business gets rights, the public would suffer regardless. If Dr. Hull and his chiefs win the battle, you'll get a slight rise in your taxes later. If they do not, the land they must purchase later to make the necessary addition to school needs would increase your taxes beyond a few pennies.

The battle now raging between civic heads and the school board is not a new one. It's been going on for the past several years. The referee, generally considered to be the residents of Torrance, has not made an appearance as yet.

Who knows, the fight may go 100 rounds before the ref decides to come in and call the contest no decision. By that time, however, you'll find your pocketbook empty.
