

Summertime or Evaluation Time?

Summertime also is evaluation time among principals in the Torrance Unified School District.

In addition to summer school duties, Torrance's principals also serve on a number of committees which study and plan for improvements in the curriculum.

Receiving study this summer were these subjects:

1. Science—Principals reviewed the state texts on science and developed a planned program of instruction for Torrance. They suggested what types of instruction should be taught and when.

2. Academically talented students—Principals made plans for educating the district's brightest students.

3. Exploratory foreign language—Administrators drew up a guide for foreign language teachers, with sample lessons developed.

4. Elementary social studies—Principals worked on a program for organizing the content of elementary social studies. They sought to emphasize the "why" of social studies, with provisions for keeping up with latest world developments. They sought to identify the most important lessons which could be learned from social studies.

5. Social studies for the educable mentally retarded—Development of a program to help mentally retarded students prepare and understand jobs which they can do is the aim, with setting of realistic goals for these students, they decided. This will be a continuing study.
