

What's New on Fall Television

"DAN RAVEN"—Skip Homeier (right) stars, as a lieutenant of detectives in the West Hollywood Sheriff's Office, in the title role of the NBC-TV Network's new full-hour Friday night mystery-adventure series, "Dan Raven." Each episode will have a popular show-business personality as guest star, with Paul Anka (left), and other headliners slated to appear. Setting for the series will be the jumble of night clubs along Hollywood's "Strip."

"OUTLAWS"—Created within the NBC program development department, the one-hour, historically authentic western series documenting the stories of famous badmen will occupy a Thursday night slot on the NBC-TV network's 1960-61 schedule. The "Outlaw" series, set in the Oklahoma territory at the turn of the century, stars (from left) veteran actor Barton MacLane as U. S. Marshal Frank Caine and newcomers Don Collier and Jack Gaynor, respectively, as deputy marshals Will Foreman and Heck Maxtin.

ON MYSTERY HOUR—Joseph Nye Welch, noted lawyer, who has scored as an actor and television host, will again preside over the series of nine full-hour special mystery programs on the NBC-TV Network's "Dow Hour of Great Mysteries" during the 1960-1961 season. Stories will be chosen from classics, thrillers and mood pieces.

Kingston Trio Appears at Hollywood Bowl Show
The Kingston Trio, currently red-hot folk singers featured in the "Stereo At The Bowl" concert series Sept. 16 to 17 in Hollywood Bowl, came to the top without the shrill acclaim of teen-agers. The young ex-collegians admit that they've pitched their tunes primarily to a more sophisticated audience, rather than the juveniles.
