Forum Series Begins Sunday

The Social Action Committee of the Pacific Unitarian Church of Torrance and the Manhattan Community Church will inaugurate their first annual Fall Forum Series Sunday night with an illustrated lecture by R. M. Ariss.

The noted Los Angeles County Museum's curator of anthropology has titled his presentation "Man in Our Changing World."

The program will be held at the Torrance church, 1610 Acacia Ave., and is scheduled for 8 p.m.

Ariss, who did his undergraduate work in economics and anthropology at the University of California at Berkeley, later earned a master's degree in the latter subject at UCLA.

Additional graduate work has been done at the University of New Mexico and the University of Southern California, where he is now studying for his doctorate.

TOY KING—Duane Hedke sets up a telescope, one of 1001 toys for every age group found in his new store in downtown Torrance.

Today's Toys Smart as Kids, Says Owner of Toy King

When grown-ups play with toys, they might possibly be candidates for the psychiatrist's couch. Not so, Duane Hedke, who is surrounded with toys from early morning until late in the evening, and sometimes dream of them.

Owner of Torrance's newest and largest Toy King, 1265 Sartori Ave., Hedke, a Swede by way of Kansas, has lived in the South Bay area for the past 12 years.

Although his new shop is less than a month old, Hedke claims he has the largest stock of toys south of the Rock Candy Mountain.

"We stock everything from groaning tables filled with 5-cent balls, toy automobiles, jacks, to way-out space rocket sets that help thin out a father's wallet," Hedke says.

"There are also collections of lush dolls and plush animals that sub-debs and teen-agers dote on collecting to pile on their beds.

"Toys have come a long way since the rag doll that grandmothers made for their favorite youngsters a few short generations ago, says Hedke.

"Today's toys are as sophisticated as the youngsters, and parents enjoy running trains all over the house as much as the kids do."

In addition to toys of every description, Hedke's shop features a complete collection for birthday parties, as well as stacks of books for the young.

The biggest favorite in the book rack is Franklin Douglas' "Hardy Boy" series and the "Nancy Drew" series by Carolyn Keene.

"To paraphrase a popular slogan, Hedke declares, "the family that plays together, stays together."

FIRETHORNS BLAZE

September is a good month to shop at nurseries for berried shrubs—especially the Firethorns (Pyracantha). Both the early orange Firethorns and the later red-berried varieties are used extensively in California for fall color.
