Borders Market Gives Way for Street Widening

Border was out-bordered this week. The original No. 1 Market of Borders, 3500 Aviation Blvd., which has served the Manhattan Beach for 15 years in the same location with a friendly and courteous principle, closed its doors permanently this week. The market has given way for the widening of Aviation Blvd. Markets No. 2 and 4, at Redondo Beach Blvd. and Prairie Ave., and at 5305 Torrance Blvd., and the No. 3 store at 223 St. and Avalon, continue "to serve our wonderful customers with the same friendly attitude as in the past," market spokesmen announced.

Letters

EDITOR THE PRESS:
Torrance is rich in children, but poor in the funds to provide adequate education for them. Despite the fact that Torrance has many industries, it is a "poor" district in terms of school finance because it has about one-third more children than the average city. Torrance's 27,000 students represent about one-quarter of the town's residents. Another 15 per cent of the city's population is of pre-school age, and the stork is continuing his activities unabated. Builders are continuing to build large homes ideal for raising children. Because it has so many children, Torrance has only $8308 of assessed valuation behind each of its children. Any district which has less than $10,000 behind each child is considered a "poor" district. While Torrance's assessed valuation is increasing, it is not increasing enough to offset the effects of a constantly increasing enrollment (2000 to 3000 new students each year), a constantly increasing increase in the ratio of high school students, and the effects of inflation. That is why the Board of Education finds itself at a tax ceiling as far as the operating costs (for salaries, books, and other operating equipments) are concerned. We have done everything that we considered wise to keep costs down, but we have come to the point where the program will suffer if we go further. That is why we urged you to vote "yes" on October 11 for schools—to provide additional revenues for Torrance youngsters.

Member and Past President

Activities Keep First Pentecost Members Busy
A Rummage Sale will be held Saturday, Oct. 8, at the First Pentecost Church, 2147 W. 237th St. The sale will begin at 9 a.m. and continue throughout the day, according to the pastor, Rev. W. D. Smith. "Operation 10,000," a nation wide Sunday School contest has the First Pentecost Church School as one of the participants. For the last 3 Sundays the church school record has been broken. The public is invited to participate in the activities of the church.

SOUND ANSWERS
When is a house a hedge? Today's home buyers, who are hoping that their new dwellings will provide at least a partial hedge against inflation, are coming up with some sound answers. Along with considerations of style and location, they know that durable and traditional materials are essential if a house is to increase in value as the years go by. One such material is stucco. Walls of colored stucco finishes, with a minimum of care, will outlast any mortgage and help keep the value of a new home abreast of price hikes in your area.
