Dear Editor
The defeat of the "50 cent tax override proposal" I do not believe was due to "a reflection of the general economic conditions" as Dr. J. H. Hull's statement indicated.

board of education would issue a statement of policy saying the currently used 75 cents override would be reduced if the need ceased.
I, for one, would vote for such a proposal, even though I feel that a tax for schools should be representative and non-property owners as well as property owners, with children in our Torrance Schools, should bear there representative cost of education.

Torrance School System and am a property owner. However, I have neighbors who do not have children or are sending their children to private schools. The latter feel that they are not receiving a FAIR SHAKE when taxed additionally for schools and I have to agree with them.

all-ready educated people who could see nothing but additional, never ending taxes in the recent proposal.
There has to be a control someplace on taxes or our monthly average on taxes will be far in excess of what we are making in payments.
