Yogi Bear Show to Premiere Thursday

"Fools rush in where angels fear to tread"—and bears sometimes succeed where human beings fail.

Take Yogi Bear, for example. For three years he's held down a featured role on the "Huckleberry Hound" program. Now he's moving up into a show of his own! How many human beings can you think of who have had this good fortune?

The bumbling and boisterous bruin's new program, "The Yogi Bear Show," will premiere Thursday, February 2, at 7 p. m., on KTTV, Channel Eleven.

Yogi will have his regular friends with him—Boo Boo Bear and Ranger Smith—and he also will welcome a couple of new associates. One is Snagglepuss, a hammy lion, who made his TV debut last season as an inept sheep poacher on the "Quick Draw McGraw" program. The other is a little duck named Yakky Doodle, who has been seen previously in Yogi Bear episodes on the "Huckleberry Hound" show.

Yogi Bear, sired by Hanna-Barbara Productions, has become the best-known most popular bear in the world in the three short years that he has been with Huck Hound. In fact, Yogi was getting too big to be a mere featured player, so Hanna-Barbara put together "The Yogi Bear Show," elevating the happy bear to stardom, in line with the Hanna-Barbara promotion-from-within policy.

Locale of the new adventures will remain Jellystone Park, where Yogi will continue to have way-out experiences with his fellow critters, Ranger Smith and touring visitors of all descriptions.

Replacing Yogi on the "Huckleberry Hound" program will be a fast-talking, wise-cracking wolf, named Hokey, who has been seen in the Yogi Bear version of Little Red Riding Hood, and a newly-created nebbish of a little wolf, named Ding A Ling.

Monday—Friday 7 p. m.
