

496 Patients Treated in Bay Emergency Center

Emergency center at South Bay Hospital treated more than four times as many patients in August 1961 than it did during the same month a year ago — the first month in which the 150-bed hospital was open.

Russell B. Williams, hospital administrator, said 115 persons were given emergency treatment in the 24-hour emergency center in August of 1960, whereas 496 were cared for this August.

The emergency center at Beryl St. and Prospect Ave., Redondo Beach, is the only such facility in South Bay which is staffed 24 hours a day by a doctor and a nurse, Williams said. The doctor and nurse on duty have no other medical assignment in the hospital.

3,233 Treated

Total number of persons treated for the first year was 3233, including 249 persons who received emergency care a second time at the center.

Williams said the increased use of the facility during the first year was a steady month-by-month increase.

Statistics on emergency center treatments since South Bay Hospital opened in August, 1960, were: August, 115; September, 177; October, 242; November, 221; December, 271; January, 288; February, 277; March, 292; April, 338; May, 382; June, 383; July, 474, and August, 496.

Center Advantages

One big advantage of having an emergency center in a major hospital is the availability of resources of the hospital.

"Transferring the patient to a major hospital after receiving emergency care is not necessary. If major surgery, x-ray, or hospitalization is necessary, it can be done immediately after emergency care and without further delay or discomfort for the patient," Williams said.

He said that 515 patients treated at South Bay Hospital emergency center during the year were admitted to the hospital for surgery or further care.

Alarmed at the continuing number of deaths of young children trapped in abandoned refrigerators and ice-boxes, the State Rubbish Collectors Association has announced plans for a drive to eliminate these deathtraps.

William Ohanesian, president of the Association, stated that all police departments in Los Angeles County have been notified that upon discovery of such a refrigerator or ice-box a call to the Association headquarters, RA 3-5312, will bring a truck and quick disposal of the hazard to children, without cost.

In making the announcement Ohanesian said, "We are extremely anxious to do our utmost to eliminate this deadly nuisance which has caused so much tragedy in recent years because most of the members of our association are parents of young children too."
