Pastels Tasty Holiday Colors
Take a taste of apricot or a dab of paintbox colors for your holiday season party dress.

That's the word from the November Seventeen, which predicts that apricot will be the newest, biggest color this year.

It glows in everything from floating chiffon to shiny satin, keynoted by bare bodices, snug waists and gracefully-shaped skirts—or, in chiffon, skirts that float away.

In a delicate group of paintbox colors—cool, blue, misty green, lemon or a organe ice—willowy crepes float for dates.

Sleeveless overblouses top pleated skirts, while full skirts star in utterly simple dresses.

A real evening coat will cover every gala occasion for the fashionable teen-age girl.

Elegant new coats in fabulous fabrics can be worn over short evening dresses or, with an accessory switch, over date dresses too, says the November Seventeen.

A girl might choose a seven-eighths length snow bunny of white Verel pile with snuggle-up collar, a demi-fitted shimmering brocade that's Curon-laminated and Milium-insulated, or a high-fashion curly "lamb" that flares over a hot-pink crepe lining.
