Five Carefully Selected Residences To Be Viewed by Thousands on Tour

Next weekend has been set aside for the thirteenth annual Peninsula Homes Tour sponsored by the Episcopal Church Women of St. Francis Parish.

Five homes have been selected for the tour which will be conducted from noon until 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, May 5 and 6.

They will be the Williamsburg residence of the Robert Foulk family; the contemporary home of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Hatch; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G. Timme's French Provincial; the Oriental residence of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Woolbert; and the Transitional home of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney G. Thornbury.

The Palos Verdes Peninsula Homes Tour was originally conceived as a fund-raising device to benefit the Palos Verdes College.

Francis Parish, but support the Homes Tour in a very gracious manner.

The funds that are realized from these tours go to the building of our parish and to various missionary projects in Southern California and throughout the world.

In appreciation for the support of this tour, Torrance residents attending will be served refreshments at the St. Francis parish hall between 2 p.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Ticket-brochures containing a map and all pertinent information may be purchased at the church on Via Rosa, or by the Rolling Hills main gate, Tarkington Real Estate in the Palos

Verdes Plaza, Palos Verdes Drugs, Palos Verdes Spice Shop and South Shores Drug Store.

A supply is also available at Lunada Bay Liquor and Delicatessen; Riviera Stationers on Via El Prado in Hollywood Rivera, and Kasden's in WALTERIA as well as other key locations in the area.

'Mother of Year' Contest Entries Being Accepted

Do YOU qualify as Torrance's "Mother of the Year"? If so, you may be honored by the Torrance Press this Mother's Day.

The Press feels that since a Mother is a combination cook, housekeeper, nurse, comforter, hostess, banker, public relations manager, seamstress, answering service, family coordinator, companion, leader, as well as so many other worthwhile things, she should be entitled to special recognition.

On the front page of today's Torrance Press there is an entry blank for the "Mother of the Year" contest. Any mother living in our circulation area is eligible.

There are no gimmicks, no "special" attributes other than the really important ones — those outstanding qualities which make a woman a truly "good" mother.

A child, a husband, a next door neighbor may fill out the entry blank and send it in to the Press. Contest ends Friday, May 11, at noon.

"Mother of the Year" winner will receive a beautiful plaque from the Press, engraved with her name, honoring her for services rendered to her home and family.

A panel of judges, not yet announced, will work in conjunction with the Press, to select the winner. For additional information, see the front page of the Torrance Press.

Seventeen Students Edison Co. Guests

Seventeen exchange students, representing 13 nations of Europe, North and South America, were weekend guests at Southern California Edison Company's world-famous multi-purpose hydroelectric complex in the High Sierra.

Included among the guests were Pauline Hogeweg of the Netherlands, who is living with Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Collier in Inglewood, Robert Hens from Belgium, who is residing with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd B. Rowe, 303 220th St., Torrance, and Giovanni de Chiara of Italy, who is living with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Smith of Inglewood, during their senior year in high school.

The students were shown the powerhouses, dams and man-made recreation lakes which comprise the Edison Company's Big Creek-San Joaquin River development.

"It was a wonderful opportunity to get better acquainted with these students from other lands and, also, to show them—first-hand—an example of American free enterprise in action," said Roy Cowden, Edison's northern hydro division superintendent who served as one of the hosts for the tour.

"The company's Big Creek system, built entirely without government funds, is truly multiple-purpose in that it provides controlled irrigation, flood control and recreation benefits, as well
