

Student Labor Pool Is Available

For some people vacation is not a time to relax. With the end of the school year, thousands of local high school and college students are seeking jobs, according to Murray W. Love, Manager, California Department of Employment, Torrance office.

The State Employment Service is making an all-out effort to find jobs for as many students and graduates as possible, he said. Both employers and job seekers are urged to state their requirements soon at any office of the State Employment Service. Aptitude and proficiency tests and vocational counseling sessions are scheduled daily.

"The community will benefit in many ways if employers will utilize the student labor pool created by summer vacations and graduation from high school and college for over 300,000 students in Los Angeles County alone," Love stated.

Some of the benefits, according to Love are: "Business and industry gain by tapping the resources of an above-average group with at least partial training in many occupations."

"In the economic race with totalitarian countries, the nation as a whole gains by adding new skills and on-the-job experience to the future work force that may be asked to make a maximum contribution to America's struggle. In addition, youth on payrolls add to the general buying power.

"The students themselves will benefit by being productively occupied. The non-graduate will be able to acquire funds to continue his education," Love pointed out.

The ages of the students run from the early teens to the graduate college student who holds an advanced degree. Their skills range from lawn mowing and baby sitting to cost accounting and laboratory research, Love said. In between are skilled typists, shop trainees, sales personnel, deliverymen, and about any other occupation an employer could name.

The duration of the jobs can be from one hour to permanent, Love said, adding that all the resources of the State Employment Service are available to applicants and employers without charge. In many occupational classifications, test-selected applicants can be referred to employers, and these workers will have a high probability of success on the job, according to Love.

Vacations for students in the Catholic parochial schools began June 14 and in the Los Angeles City, Torrance and South Bay Union High School Districts on June 15.

Harbor Summer Session Offers Six Courses in Social Sciences

Six courses in the social science field will be offered during the Harbor College Summer Session, July 9 to Aug. 17.

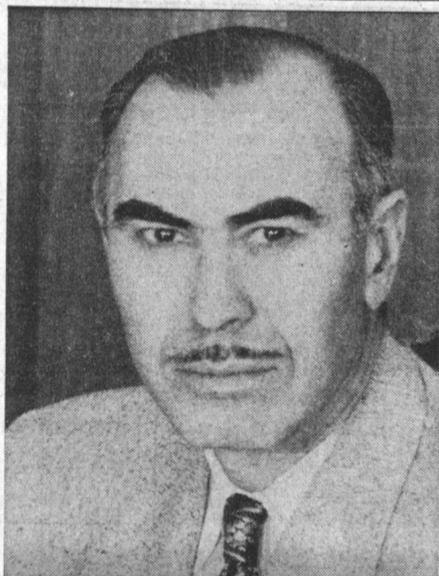

Of special interest during an election year is the course in Political Science I. Among problems to be considered by the class are the structure of political parties in California, important decisions of the Supreme Court regarding freedom of speech, press and religion, development of the Federal Constitution, and procedures of the Supreme Court. This basic course in the principles and problems of local, state and national governments is acceptable for credit at Long Beach State and UCLA.

Instructors will be Robert Dunn and Harold Garvin who teach the course during the regular term. One section meets from 9 to 11 Tuesday through Thursday.

A course in the Principles of Economics will be taught by Gerald Eliot. History 11 and 12, the Political and Social History of the United States, will be taught by Don Rogan, Eliot, Dunn and Garvin.

Registration for summer courses will take place Thursday, July 5, and Friday, July 6, from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m., and from 6 to 8 p.m. Any high school graduate or person over 18 years of age may sign up.

Torrance Girl Scouts Attend International Meet in Vermont

Three Torrance girls are among the 102 Senior Girl Scouts, Los Angeles Council and four adult volunteers who will be attending National Girl Scout Roundup at Button Bay, Vermont, on the shores of Lake Champlain July 15 to 31.

The campers, 14 through 17 years old, from 50-states of the Union and the United States possessions, will be joined by two-hundred Girl Guide Rangers (equivalent of Senior Scouts) from approximately twenty countries. A Girl Guide from Sweden is a guest of Los Angeles Council and will travel with local Scouts and sixty-five members of other Southern California Girl Scout councils on the special train leaving Union Station July 15 at 11 a.m.

The girls will erect a city of 6,000 multi-colored tents in the 250 acre Button Bay State Park and adjacent fields and woodland. The 1962 Roundup is the third to be sponsored by Girl Scouts and is the largest event for teenaged girls in the free world.

The purpose of this international encampment is to bring together girls of various races, national origins and creeds to share in a rich camping experience and a wide selection of activities.

Torrance Girl Scouts attending Roundup are Nancy Trambley, Linda Kennedy and Candace Vosen.

The role of women in the future will be discussed in the course of four youth forums on human relations and world affairs. Campers will stage demonstrations illustrating typical features of their respective region or country. Girls from Los Angeles Council have prepared demonstrations of glass blowing, Indian sand painting, making a Pinada, and panning for gold.

Each girl will bring to Roundup small items representative of her community to trade ("swap") with other girls. "Swaps" from Los Angeles Council include miniature Indian headdresses, Mexican skirts, sarapes, California poppies, tiny Abalone shells, clothes pins dressed as Spanish Padres, and other items typifying our heritage and culture.

An art exhibit entitled "Picture Your Home Frontier" will include a selection of the most representative works of art submitted by thousands of Girl Scouts of all ages. Each entry will depict a typical aspect of a community — its landscape, historic landmarks or industrial life.

In accordance with the Girl Scout Promise "... to do my duty to God," the campers will attend religious services of their choice. For the first time, the Roundup staff will include resident chaplains of the three major faiths — Protestant, Catholic and Jewish.

Playgrounds at Wilmington and Normandale Host Circus-Carnival

"Exciting action is in store for youngsters at every one of the stops made by the Traveling Circus and Kiddie Carnival on its 1962 tour of 28 play centers," announces Ralph Borrelli, supervisor of special events in the City Recreation and Park Department.

There's fun for youngsters from the moment the gaily decorated circus wagon arrives at the most playground at 10 a.m. until the 10-piece band plays the Grand Finale at the conclusion of the 8 p.m. main show.

In the evenings, adults may watch their boys and girls ride on the Kiddie Carnival's various contraptions, which go into operation at 6 p.m., and recalling their own younger days as the youngsters consume mountains of candied apples, cotton candy, pink lemonade.

The main show is the highlight of the day and provides hilarious fun. There's a laugh a minute for the adults and youngsters in the audience and the youthful playground performers who don Recreation and Park Department-provided costumes and become freaks, ferocious animals, clowns, and similar circus stars.

The Traveling Circus and Kiddie Carnival will appear at Wilmington Playground, 325 Neptune Ave., Wilmington, on Friday, Aug. 3, and at Normandale Playground, 22400 S. Halldale Ave., on Monday, Aug. 6.
