Heaven, Earth Subjects for Talk Winner

Heaven and earth were subjects covered by Toastmasters Charles O. Hopkins and John Chadwick of the South Bay Toastmasters Club last Wednesday evening.

Chadwick, a noted historian of this club, delivered his speech describing the geological evolution in the paleozoic, mesozoic and cenozoic areas. This speech won top honors of the evening for Chadwick.

Runner-up for top speaking awards was the space-probing speech delivered by Dr. Hopkins. His speech covered some of the problems that will be encountered in communications with other planets in the nation's ever expanding scientific space probes.

Other talks were presented by B. F. Stevens and Dr. W. Labit. Stevens spoke of the necessity of increased life insurance benefits. Dr. Labit spoke of American heritage and what citizens should know of it.

Guest speaker of the evening, Dick Dane of Toastmaster club 2008 (North American Aviation), presented an educational speech concerning the history of Toastmasters, which was of particular interest to the month and also the month of December will be geared for the benefit of guests of the South Bay Club. Additional guest speakers will be featured to enlighten guests seeking to learn of the benefits and functions of Toastmasters.

Men interested in developing the art of public speaking, developing leadership abilities and conducting meetings through actual experience are invited to attend the South Bay Club, Wednesday evenings, 6:45 at the Redondo Beach Elks Club. For additional information call Don Payne, FRontier 1-2566.
