

Space Labs Name Rees To Ad Post

The appointment of Edwin H. Rees as assistant director of Administrative Operations with broad responsibilities for public information at Space Technology Laboratories has been announced by Frederick W. Hesse, vice president, operations.

Rees formerly was assistant corporate director of public relations at North American Aviation, Inc.

He will now act as an advisor to corporate management on communication policies and procedures and will direct the company's advertising and public information programs.

A correspondent for Time Inc. from 1945 to 1961, Rees spent 11 years in Los Angeles covering business, education, politics and other regional news before joining the Washington Bureau of Time where he served as senior Pentagon correspondent.

He covered U.S. military installations and scientific expeditions worldwide from the Arctic to the Antarctic. His work carried him to several countries behind the Iron Curtain, including the Soviet Union.

In addition to his experience with Time Inc., Rees has written for several national publications and authored two books, one dealing with supersonic flight as it applies to national strategy and the other dealing with undersea warfare.

'Flying Trout' Film Offered to Groups

A new 20 minute color movie, "California's Flying Trout," is now available for the showing to organized groups, the Department of Fish and Game announced.

Depicting the trout planting program by air, the 16 mm film may be borrowed from any department office. "Wildlife Movies," a pamphlet which lists 16 films on fish and wildlife subjects, is available free of charge from and department office.

EVIDENCE OF CHRISTMAS is shown above. —Christmas work done by the Torrance-Lomita Board of Realtors in donating food to be given to needy families in Torrance. At left is Doris Sheppard, president of the women's division, with Beulah Schmidt, secretary. In the month before Christmas, board members bought the items of food to the weekly luncheon meetings. The women's division meets every other Wednesday. A speaker is scheduled for each meeting.

O'SHEA HEADS NEW TORRANCE OFFICE

Recognizing Torrance's major position as a trading center, Universal C.I.T. Corp. has opened a new office at 21152 Hawthorne Blvd., Lee R. Mosley, vice president, Los Angeles division, announced.

The quarters of the new Torrance branch are temporary, occupying a mobile home until a permanent building is built at the same location, said Henry O'Shea, Torrance manager.

Universal C.I.T. serves automobile dealers and car buyers in the installment financing of vehicles, as well as financing low-cost homes, mobile homes, property improvements, motor boats, and marine equipment.

"Recently," said O'Shea, "we have greatly expanded our personal loan services."

The company's financing of autos and other products previously has been available from the Inglewood office.

O'Shea said that the opening of the Torrance office will make Universal C.I.T. financing much more convenient to use for all dealers and their customers in the Torrance and South Bay areas.

In addition, the new office will handle personal loans.

O'Shea joined the company as an adjuster in Los Angeles in 1956, and was branch manager at Leimert Park before coming to Torrance.
