ENGINEER - SOLDIERS, 500 strong, of the 132nd Engineer Battalion, under command of Lt. Col. William L. Geisser, march in solid phalanx in Torrance Armed Forces Day Parade.

THEN THE WOMEN, the female drill team of San American Drill Team championship, under direction of Pedro Cadet Squadron 81, winners of the 1962 All-Capt. Julia Walker.

AND THE AIR FORCE ROTC Detachment 60, from USC, under direction of Capt. Robert E. Lowell, USAF, represents six different city colleges in the area.

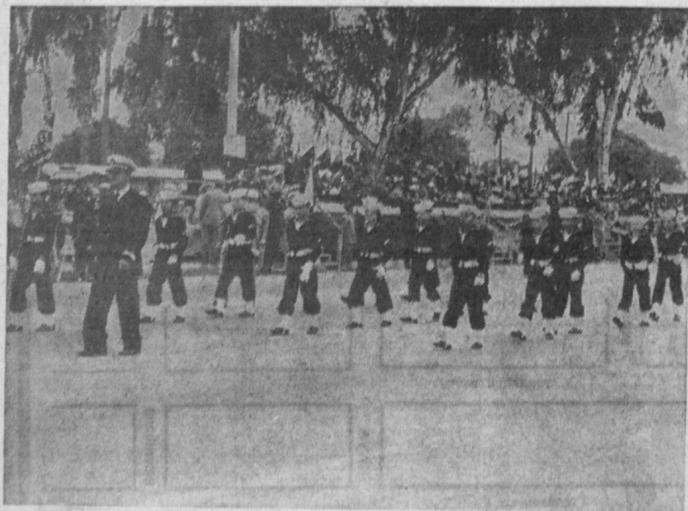

TANKS, TANKS A LOT — say GIs of the First Squadron, 111th Cavalry, one of major prize winners in parade.

THE MARINES LAND, with the First Division rifle company (left) from Camp Pendleton, famed for honors in World WAR II and Korean conflict.

RESTING UP from parade - watching rigors at family picnic (right) are these mamas (right) and their kiddies. From right, Mrs. Forest Du Quesue of 23656 Susanna Ave., her son John (her daughter Christa is out of camera range), then Douglas and Shirley Litt, and their mother, Mrs. Don Litt, of Redondo Beach. The Litts and Du Quesues said their idea was to avoid the crowds, have lunch on time. Last year they got home late from parade, hence the picnic idea.

FUTURE SAILORS impressed the crowd. This was the Nautical Cadet Corps of America Inc. marching unit, followed by their girls' drill team.

HEIGH - HO, SILVER! is cry of Torrance mounted police as they lead parade through streets of city, as an estimated 75,000 persons watch gala all-morning review. Police horsemen won special award for snappy performance. Rider is Ignacio Cano.

BE SAFE, BE SECURE, Be American—that's the motto of the Torrance Traffic Safety Council salute to the Armed forces. This Model T illustrates the long sweep of continuing American ingenuity and strength.
