 Will Ride in Rodeo Here

From the wide open spaces of Arizona cattle ranches to the congested freeways and paved by-ways of Southern California, is quite a transition for a man who loves horses.

However, Nate Cano, 20556 Amie Avenue, made the change and still finds time to devote to horses.

Cano, an employe of Southern California Gas Company's Southwest Division and based at the distribution facility at 4519 W. 182nd St., Redondo Beach, was reared in Arizona.

"We lived right in the heart of cattle country," Cano explained, "and as a kid I learned to ride horses almost as soon as I learned to walk. We had plenty of teachers around — cowhands, ranchers, older kids who were all willing to pass on whatever they knew about horses."

Fun and Pay
 "As I got older," Cano said, "I started spending my summers helping out on some of the ranches. A lot of the other kids did the same thing — as much for the fun of it as for the pay we got."

"We learned how to cut a steer out of a herd and how to rope and how to do most of the chores around a ranch. Of course as far as cutting goes, if the horse is well trained it does all the work, you just go along for the ride and to select the steer to be cut out."

First horse ever owned by Cano was given to him when he was around 16 or 17 years old. He spent the better part of a night helping a rancher with a mare ready to foal. When the colt was born, the rancher turned to Cano and told him he could have it because he had been so much help.

Beautiful Roan
 "I was so darn proud I could have burst," the Torrance man said. "He was a beautiful strawberry roan and I named him Mickey."

Many years have passed since then. Cano has been through World War II and held a variety of jobs. For the past 15 years he has worked for the Southern California Gas Company, but has never lost his love for horses.

"And I guess it's contagious," Cano exclaimed. "My wife Dora, and our two teenage boys, Ray and Bob, love horses, too, and they're all good riders."

Currently, Cano owns a buckskin gelding quarter-horse named Chico and an 18-month old filly named Pachita.

Good-Natured Steed
 Chico is a steady, good-natured horse for riding in parades and also excellent as a roping and hunting animal. A rifle can be fired from his back without a flicker of a flinch on his part.

Pachita is being trained for cutting and roping in rodeo competitions. Later because she comes from champion stock she will be a valuable brood mare.

To keep up on his riding Cano joined the Torrance Mounted Police. He is deputized and is subject to call at all times in the event of an emergency.

With them he rides in parades and rodeos from Santa Maria to Palm Springs. In addition, the group frequently holds trail rides and campouts that include the families.

Preparing for Rodeo
 Current project is getting ready for the annual rodeo, he pointed out. "Last year we sold out to standing room only and we expect an even larger crowd this year," Cano stated.

"We also sponsor Play Days, which are competing their horses and we judge them on how well trained they are and how well the kids ride — they get quite a boot out of it. Eventually we hope to build our own rodeo grounds for the whole South Bay area, but that will take time and money."

"For the moment we're content to operate on a small scale and derive all the pleasure we can out of working with our horses," Cano concluded.

$18,000 ALLOTTED TO IMPROVING ROAD

An allocation of $18,000 has been approved by the board of supervisors for improvement of Avalon Boulevard in vicinity of Sepulveda Boulevard and Bayport Street.

The project will consist of constructing asphaltic concrete pavement to join with new curb and gutter construction previously installed.
