Spotlight on Personalities

Sheetronics Industries, Inc.

Several years ago three men working in aircraft plants decided to go into business for themselves in the same trade they were in at the time. Today the three men head a successful sheet metal fabrication plant at 1760 B Oak St. in Torrance, Sheetronics Industries, Inc. Joe Saba, Joffre Marcil and Ray Ryyth are subcontractors who build metal component parts, such as computers and electrical systems. Sheetronics boasts that all their equipment was purchased new and is best in its field. This high grade equipment allows the firm to do very close tolerance work with a plus or minus of 5 thousandths of an inch. The firm specializes in layout work for commercial and military projects. They also do tooling and template fixtures. From the beginning staff, consisting of the three owners, Sheetronics now employs ten full-time persons and are represented in the field by sales manager Bob Varana.

THREE OWNERS of Sheetronics Industries, Inc., are (from left) Ray Ryyth, secretary-treasurer; Joe Saba, president, and Joffre Marcil, vice-president.

Tolson - Vaughn Inc.

A recent merger which formed the new Tolson-Vaughn Inc. real estate office at 2018 W. Carson has proved very beneficial both for the organization and their customers. Two separate departments have been formed at Tolson-Vaughn, one for general real estate and business opportunities and the other for land. A relatively small eight man staff allows more personalized service to customers according to Mr. Del Vaughn. Unlike the early years of real estate business when each realtor worked independently, Tolson-Vaughn is a member of the Torrance-Lomita Board of Realtors. This organization is striving to make the handling of real estate a profession. Here members work together with such things as multiple, and photo listings.
