AN EASTERN CHRISTMAS FOR TWO CHILDREN

Two little tots, John, 5, and Julie, 4, children of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar C. Hanson, 17038 Falda, who recently moved here from Chicago, wanted only to have their grandparents for Christmas. The children, being from Chicago, also were used to snow and snowmen during the holidays and were concerned over not having them to depict the season. The children's grandparents searched until they found some artificial snowmen and air-freighted them out to the kids. The children's symbols of Christmas arrived Thursday and the grandparents followed Sunday. Cotton was placed on the roof of the Hanson home and also on the lawn to represent snow. With the two snowmen as well as a giant Santa Claus, the scene resembles one that could be found back east. Today there are two very happy children in California as they feel Santa already has granted them their greatest desire.

IDEA FOR TODAY

A person's name is his proudest possession. We ought to use our friends' names correctly, and use one that each prefers.

THE PEDESTRIAN

During the rush of the Holiday Season, the Automobile Club of Southern California reminds you — the pedestrian — to cross streets only at corners to obey the "walk" and "don't walk" signals and to keep to the right of the crosswalk.
