

ADVANCED STUDENTS . . . Five ambitious Bishop Montgomery High students have completed their first semester in college—during the summer. Shown are Pat Kawaga, Linda Bidlecki, Mary Prime, Terry Keating, and Brian Cameron. Miss Bidlecki attended the California Museum of Science and Industry, while the other four attended summer classes at Loyola University.

Temple Lines Up Series of Fall Classes

The adult education program of Temple Menorah, 1101 Camino Real, has been announced by the Adult Education Committee.

A workshop, "Understanding of the Bible," will be presented by Rabbi Jerome A. Unger, spiritual leader of Temple Menorah, before each lecture.

Lectures are as follows:

"A Night with the Hasmidim," presented by Rabbi Solomon F. Kleinman, western regional director Union of American Hebrew Congregations, Oct. 14.

"The Golem," a French classic movie with English subtitles, Oct. 21.

"Let's Turn the Pages of Jewish Humor," presented by Than Wyenn, TV personality and drama supervisor of the Los Angeles Bureau of Jewish Education, Oct. 28.

"The Dybbuk," movie, Nov. 4.

"Iddish Folk Songs and Jewish Values," Cantor Max Roth, Nov. 11.

"Jewish Artists in Paris," by Rabbi William M. Kramer, authority on the history of Jewish art, Nov. 18.

Registration fee for series of lectures is $8 per person or $12 per couple. Further information is available through Dr. Leonard Cole, chairman, FR 5-0878, or at the temple office, FR 8-8444.

Welfare Topic For Conference

Paul Mackey, attendance officer of the Torrance Unified School District, will represent the district at the annual conference on the Direction and Improvement of Child Welfare. The meeting will take place Nov. 10 through 13 in Bakersfield.

'Whoop-T-Do' Great Success

The "Whoop-T-Do," fundraising event sponsored by the United Auxiliary of the Garden Valley Training Center for Mentally Retarded Children, was an overwhelming success, according to Mrs. Roy Tracey auxiliary president.

Mrs. Tracey praised South-west service organizations, entertainers, leaders and particularly residents attending the two-day entertainment as giving the mentally retarded child a better world.

Cited as one of Gardena's most spectacular events according to Al Defilippo, public relations chairman, the program included: Bob Longacre as master of ceremonies, Jimm "C" and his County Playboys, Singing Sweetheart Square Dancers, The Continental "4", and The Yana Tribe of Torrance YMCA Indian Maidens.

Featured were Tom "Pop-eye" Hatten, Bozo the Clown, Den Weisen and his horse Perfecto; KMPC Gary Owens as master of ceremonies, Ed Martin Lair and his Alley Cats, The Beatles of Gardena, and many other acts.

Included as judges of the children's pet show were Mayor Albert Isen, Gardena's Chief of Police Roy Tracey; Mayor Robert Kane of Gardena; Mayor Frank Hogen of Lawndale and Supervisor Kenneth Hahn.

Gary Owens concluded the program stating, "The parents of the children have worked hard, long before the United Auxiliary was formed.

WE'RE DOING OUR BEST

(though we wish it could be a whole lot better)

We'd like to have placed our usual ad today, giving you news of all the special bargains available at Market Basket.

But we've always believed in living up to our promises. And because of the uncertain delivery situation, we can't be sure exactly which foods we will have in plentiful supply this weekend. There is NO shortage of food, although you may not find all the brands and every item you usually find at Market Basket.

You CAN be sure, though, that we'll continue to offer the most nearly complete selection we can—including specials—at the lowest prices.
