AT HAMPTON THEATER . . . "Children with blue faces and draw strings at their necks," James Robert (Don Mallon) tells his sister, Reba Marie (Lise Murphy) in a scene from Hampton Players, 100 Wall Street, Redondo Beach, current production of "Rhoades' End," by J. J. Johnstone. The play continues through Nov. 14.
