By Mike Connolly

Dear Sir: You claim Allan Sherman isn't Dorothy Kilgallen's son, yet she appeared on TV recently and introduced him as such. Do we believe Dorothy?—Mrs. D. A. Mitchell, Somerville, Mass.

Dear Mrs. Mitchell: Louella Parsons once introduced me to Rosalind Russell as "my son by Calvin Coolidge." Oh well, maybe Louella has a lighter touch than Dottie—so you go right ahead and believe Dottie.

Dear Mike: Is it true that just before their performance in Boston the Beatles consumed two bottles of liquor and refused to see a girl who had one month to live for some reason? Please tell me the truth.—Judy Gringorten, Framingham, Mass.

Dear Judy: I wasn't there but a spy tells me it was Guinness Stout and, as any solid Liverpool citizen will tell you, Guinness Is Good For You (that's what their ads say anyway). As for that "dying fan," she's been popping up all over the map, proving that a dedicated Beatle buff will do anything to get up close to her idols.

Dear Mr. Connolly: Why don't you quit the human race? Are you trying to be funny or something by saying Ringo's favorite singing combo is the Dave Clark Five? What's wrong, are you jealous because you can't be in the Beatles' place? You'd better write something good about these great guys or you won't have to quit the human race, you'll be thrown out by all of the Beatle fans!—I. L. B., Peoria, Ill.

Dear L.L.B.: Ringo himself

Dear Bettie: Lassie, despite his (I hate to disillusion you but she is really a he) starring status, does occasionally come down with a compound case of what the veterinarian schools call Clenoccephalis canis—okay, so it's fleas in everyday language. But the studio doctor is always on hand with the most expensive flea powder money can buy so quit arguing, hear me?

Dear Mike: Does Hayley Mills have her parents with her when she goes on a date?—Robin Kinnear, Belmont, Mass.

Dear Robin: Not any more. She's 18 now and loving every minute of it.

Aside to Jean Evans and all you other fans who write in for addresses: All of the personalities you inquire about may be reached by writing to the TV network or movie studio for which they last worked. I don't have room here to run addresses, and it's simpler to make a note when the credits roll before you after each movie or TV show.

Dear Mike: You said that Gracie Allen was a Roman Catholic. Why was she buried with an Episcopal service?—Frank Smith, Milford, Mass.

Dear Frank: I said she was born a Catholic. But she was never able to "straighten out" her marriage to George Burns, a divorced man.

Sir: Could you tell me the names of Mary Pickford's former husbands, in their proper order? I know that her present husband is Buddy Rogers.—Mrs. William Ritchie, Dedham, Mass.

Dear Ritchie: Mary was divorced from Owen Moore and Douglas Fairbanks, in that order. Both are dead.

Dear Sir: Please tell me who the five nominees for best actor in last year's Academy Awards.—N.T., Chicago, Ill.

30-Year Man Honored by Union Oil Co.

In honor of his 30th anniversary with the Union Oil Co., Harry Hill of Torrance and his wife were guests of John W. Towler, senior vice president, at a dinner and reception at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel.

Dear N. T.: Sidney Poitier (he won), Albert Finney, Richard Harris, Rex Harrison and Paul Newman.

Mike Connolly will try to answer your questions in his column. He can give no personal replies by mail.)

Guests at the dinner included 33 other 30-year employees and 35 employees and their wives who had been with the company 35 years.

Golfers Enter Gardena Open

Charley Sifford and Jerry Barber, perennial pace-setters in the Gardena Valley Open Golf Tournament, will challenge 1963 champion Joe Kirkwood, Jr., when play gets underway Nov. 12-15 at the Western Avenue Golf Course in southwest Los Angeles.

Hill, who joined the company in 1934 in the pipeline department, is now head gauger in the Dominguez area.
