Air Force Offers New Prior Service Program

Increasingly technical weapons systems have created a continuing need for trained technicians in the U. S. Air Force. T. Sgt. Clark Graham, Torrance Air Force recruiter, said today.

Sgt. Graham said former servicemen with technical training can use their skills to full advantage in the growing aerospace programs of the Air Force.

"Service career opportunities for the trained technician have never equalled what they are in the Air Force today," Sgt. Graham said. He explained that rapid technical and scientific advances have created a "wealth of opportunity for individuals to increase knowledge and develop personal talents and skills."

Detailed information about Air Force prior service programs is available at the Air Force Recruiting Station, 1616 Cabrillo Ave., or by calling Sgt. Graham at FA 8-1404.
