UNITED CRUSADE KICK-OFF

Gold Key Award Breakfast

Art Linkletter, as famed for his volunteer community service as for his repartee with kids, will interview youngsters from United Way agencies and the American Red Cross as a feature of the 24th annual Gold Key Award Breakfast Tuesday, Oct. 19 at 8:45 a.m. in the Hollywood Palladium.

The event will signal the countywide residential kick-off for the United Crusade. Some 1,000 women volunteer leaders from every sector of the County are expected to attend, according to Mrs. William A. Brackenridge of South Pasadena, chairman of the sponsoring Women's Committee for the United Way.

Mrs. Charles Luckman is program chairman.

The 1965 wearer of the symbolic Gold Key will be a woman who has shown exceptional volunteer leadership for at least 10 years in health, welfare, cultural and religious fields for the benefit of the whole community, not merely one specific agency or area. Her identity remains a secret until Mrs. James Kresl of Long Beach, chairman of the Gold Key Award selection committee, discloses the winner at the breakfast.

This year the Gold Key appears in a new design inspired by a hand-wrought 16th century key given to Superior Court Judge and Mrs. Lloyd Stevens Nix during their travels. Mrs. Nix is last year's winner of the Gold Key Award and a past chairman of the countywide Women's Committee.

Other awards to be presented at the breakfast are seven Agency Leadership Awards to men and women well known for their volunteer services to a United Way agency. Selections committee chairman is Mrs. Knowles Pollock of South Pasadena.

A Youth Leadership Award will be given by Mrs. Breene Murphy of Whittier, chairman of this selection committee, to a teenage boy or girl chosen for outstanding leadership in United Way agency activities.
