... Let's Go

By LARRY MACARAY

Going around the world last summer was an exciting experience for me as well as for the eighteen happy travelers that I had with me. It was a Hilton Holiday tour that I conducted — and it was such a pleasant journey that I'm doing it again this summer. The Hilton Hotels seem to have an elegance that can't be matched anywhere.

It's a 32-day tour that leaves Los Angeles International Airport Aug. 1. The all-inclusive price is $1,995 — which is generally considered to be the best "tour buy" on the travel market by those who know. One of my jobs is to pay the bills on the tour, so I know that there is no skimping anywhere — in fact, I still can't understand why World Travel Tours, Inc., the developer of the tour, doesn't lose money on it.

It is so easy to manipulate words on a travel brochure so as to create the feeling that the traveler is getting so much more for his money than other tours can offer. Very few tours will dare to offer an all-inclusive price — there are always "extras" of various types. The competitive Hawaii tours are a good example of this. Price is the big factor — and when you read the small print — just about all you really get is a plane trip to the islands.

of the far Eastern cities. Four days there offers us enough time to see the sights of the islands as well as Kowloon on the mainland. The side-trip to Macao by Hydrofoil is a must. The Portuguese Colony of Macao is on the Chinese mainland, which really gives us a peek behind the "bamboo curtain."

Bangkok in Thailand is our next stop. I still remember the wild boat ride down the river on the way to the floating markets. India is a world apart. Seeing Calcutta, Banaras, Agra, New Delhi, and Bombay is an experience not soon forgotten. Cairo and the Nile Hilton is next. Riding the camel to the Pyramids was fun. Jordan, Lebanon, Turkey, Greece, and Italy complete the tour with an option for travelers to stay in Europe.

If this sounds like what you might like to do, this summer, drop me a letter at the newspaper and I'll send you a brochure. Everything is described in detail. Traveling can be the most rewarding of all experiences, providing that everything is planned for your enjoyment.
