

Assignment TV

By TERRENCE O'FLAHERTY

NEW YORK CITY — It is quite an upsetting experience to walk down Fifth Avenue with a girl who is growled at by several men in every block.

That's what success has brought to Barbara Feldon, the actress-model who leaped to fame from a tiger skin rug in a television commercial ("Grrrr — Sic 'em Tiger!") to become a star as "Agent 99" in NBC's "Get Smart."

Contrary to the public myth about such encounters, there is no more deadly assignment than an interview with a starlet. They are usually young ladies who are con-mirror there's one face that's floating above the rest. It's mine!"

We met at NBC in Radio City. She was wearing a kind of optical illusion dress designed by Rudi Gernreich that made her look as if she wasn't there at all. But, sure enough, there were the black bangs and the Sic-'em Tiger Look peeking out over the top of Mr. Gernreich's illusions. On her they looked fine.

"Get Smart" has been one of the big success stories of the current television season. It was favorably reviewed and it has consistently stayed among the top favorites with the Nielsen Families. For an Eastern-born girl (Pittsburgh) the move to California was expected to be like a sentence to Siberia. But she likes it.

I'VE BECOME accustomed to driving to the studio while the moon is still in the sky and the sun is just coming up. The only thing that I dread about the show is when we have to film a sequence in the water. There have been so many of them. One time I got to the point where I couldn't take one more bucket of water in the face."

The filming of the series has stopped for the season and Miss Feldon is in New York drying off and planning a trip to Europe next month with her attractive, Belgian-born husband Lucien Feldon. He is the representative for many of New York's top fashion photographers. He is also the happiest ingredient in Miss Feldon's life.

"He's a dear, dear man who picked me up in Carnegie Hall," she said with a sly, sweet smile. "I was waiting for my date and Lucien bumped into me. He had something in his eye. We talked for an hour and fell in love. It was one of those wonderful little miracles. I had been working as a model in New York for two years and never met anyone I liked."

"What happened to the date you were waiting for?" I asked.

"He never showed up. And it's a funny thing — I met HIM at the New York Public Library! My advice to young ladies is to go to the high brow places . . ."

THE FELDONS' real home is one of the most wildly attractive apartments in New York. (He commutes regularly to California). It's a five-flight walk-up near the Plaza Hotel. The ceilings are 16 feet high with fireplaces in

Hopkins Opens New Dealership

Grand opening of Bill Hopkins Lincoln-Mercury in Torrance currently is being celebrated at new headquarters at 20460 Hawthorne Blvd. Opening of the new facility completes the move from Manhattan Beach, where the Hopkins agency was first organized in 1958.

During the grand opening, a television set and other prizes will be awarded. Residents may qualify for the prizes by visiting the agency.

Hopkins, who acquired full control of the car sales agency in 1960, said his philosophy of business is "to treat our customers in a fair and business-like manner and to make an honest profit."

Wes Pedrotti serves as sales manager for Bill Hopkins Lincoln-Mercury, while Joe Breyer heads the service department, Eric Cromie is in charge of the parts department. Marie Seares is the office manager.
