Good Old Days

New York City; It's a Small World

The weather on the East Coast is not so cold in the daytime this time of year that a major league baseball game cannot be enjoyed.

The New York Mets opened their second season at Shea Stadium with a week-long series of crowd pleasers. The Mets engaged the Dodgers for a home opener on a Monday and finished out the weekend against the Giants.

It was a great week for vacationing school children who flocked to the ball park.

Bill Shea, for whom the stadium was named, said he believes day ball games are important for the youth of this country. The turnout of youngsters at Shea Stadium proved his point Saturday.

Shea's remarks were directed to the Little League people at their convention in Washington. He said Little Leaguers are not only the players of tomorrow, but also the fans of today and tomorrow.

Shea condemned major league owners who refuse to consider the importance of daytime ball games in the overall interest of baseball.

It should not be surprising that the Mets are able to outdraw the perennial champion New York Yankees at the gate. The mere fact they oppose former New York favorites—the Giants and Dodgers—regularly is a tremendous advantage. Meeting teams like Cincinnati and St. Louis is also inviting for the Mets.

On the other hand it appears rather dreary the thought of Yankee fans storming to the Bronx to watch "thrillers" with the Washington Senators, Minnesota Twins, Baltimore Orioles, Kansas City Athletics or the L. A. Angels, for example.

The Washington Post put out a special baseball edition to launch the baseball season.

A full page spread was given to the Nats' new talent. The players include Doug Capelli, Dick New, Nick White, Pete Richert, Phil Ortega, Ken McMullen, Joe McCabe, Woody Held, Bob Chance (not Dean) and Frank Howard.

In a pre-season exhibition game against the Dodgers, Howard failed to hit the ball out of the infield. Pitchers have him pretty well figured out.

About the only hope Washington fans have for Howard is he might hit the longest home run in D. C. history sometime during the season. Nobody seems to think he will knock the cover off the ball any better than he did with the Dodgers.

The entire Washington roster resembles a mediocre Dodger "B" team.

But getting back to the Mets, they may not be the best baseball team in the country, but New Yorkers sure love 'em. If Casey Stengel, Yogi Berra and Warren Spahn painted their faces like clowns, they would make an ideal team for the World's Fair across the street from the ball park.

They are such great baseball comics they get more guest appearances of television than Mickey Mantle or Roger Maris.

A typical sports cartoon in the New York Daily News cleverly characterized the fact the Yankees and Mets had identical 1-2 records the other day. This goes on all the time.

What will it be like when the Mets start winning regularly? Bob Moses of the New York World's Fair has his fingers crossed it won't happen this summer, or the Mets might become a serious competitor to the Fair.

The way it goes now, any time the Mets fall behind six or eight runs, the fans can merely leave the stadium, walk across the street to the fairgrounds, and spend the rest of the afternoon studying the Arts!

West Beats Cards

West High held its slim lead in the Pioneer League baseball race yesterday after beating Lawndale, 3-0, at home.

Dave LaRoche hurled the shutout, giving up two hits in the second inning. He had 11 strikeouts.

West scored three unearned runs in the first, second and sixth innings.

Closest to a legitimate run came in the sixth on a double by John Marsden, followed by an error on Gary Loyd's hit ball.

West has a 4-1 record, followed by Torrance at 3-1. The Tartars defeated Aviation yesterday, 4-3, and El Segundo ran its record to 3-2 with a 7-6 win over Lennox.

South, which Coach Jerry Melvaine claims has lost its hitting sting, dropped a 3-1 Bay League game to Hawthorne. The Spartans meet Hawthorne at home tomorrow and makeup a game at home Saturday at 11 a.m. against Palos Verdes.

Redondo leads the Bay League with a 6-3 record. The Hawks beat Mira Costa yesterday, 4-3, and Rolling Hills topped Santa Monica, 8-3. South has a 4-3 record.

Baseball Season Begins

With daylight savings time giving Little Leaguers an extra hour of daylight on Sunday, most youth baseball leagues launch their 1965 season this weekend.

Some league officials report considerable interference from recent rain storms. Except for South Redondo Little League, opening day will go on as scheduled throughout the area.

South Redondo's home field at Sepulveda Blvd. and Prospect St. had a peak of four feet of water at the height of the rainfall. Work details have been working long hours to avoid a long delay in opening the season, according to Michael O'Sullivan, president.

North Torrance East Little League will open its season Sunday at its "old" ballpark at 190th St. and Van Ness Ave.

Special ceremonies marking the opening of the new field behind the Garrett Corporation will be held later in the season, according to John Mangiagli, president.

An opening season game between the Braves and Cubs will mark the opening activities.

Southwood Little League, under the direction of President George Sidio, will get the season under way Saturday at 11 a.m. with brief ceremonies. Partial games between Braves and Dodgers; Cards and Redlegs; Cubs and Giants are scheduled among the major teams. Similar minor contests will also be played.

Among leagues planning to open their seasons May 1 are Torrance American and Riviera Little League. Riviera LL has a new home on Ocean Avenue, one block north of Pacific Coast Highway.

Torrondo Little League got a jump on the timetable by opening its season last Saturday. President Ralph Avakian introduced 356 players as part of field ceremonies. Two ballparks in the Entero-dero sump have been revamped with red crushed brick fanning the infields.
