Ranger 9 Pictures Add Realism to Moon Show

Dramatic photos taken by Ranger 9 cameras and televised back to Earth add realism to "A Trip to the Moon and Saturn," now being shown at Griffith Park Observatory's planetarium theater, according to the Los Angeles City Recreation and Parks Department.

The scientific center is open every day of the week through Sept. 12, with planetarium theater shows scheduled at 3, 8 and 9:30 p.m. daily. Additional shows are offered at 1:30 and 4:30 p.m. on weekends. Dr. Clarence H. Clemenshaw, Observatory director, reports.

After making a ground study of the moon, the audience rockets into space on a voyage to the satellite. Approaching the lifeless orb, the space craft hovers several hundred miles away to observe and select a landing site.

THE ILLUSION of a landing on the barren, cratered face of the moon is achieved by projecting paintings by Chesley Bonestell on the theater's 75-foot domed ceiling.

After a stay on the bleak lunar surface, the space travelers take off for Titan, a moon of Saturn. As Saturn's largest moon, Titan has the specific gravity needed to retain an atmosphere. As a result, Titan has some characteristics similar to the Earth.

ADMISSION to the exciting spectacle is 75 cents for adults and 30 cents for children 5 to 18 years of age. The Observatory's Hall of Science offers a wide range of functioning scientific apparatus; including many which may be operated by the viewer, such as a submarine periscope, a telescope, and experiments demonstrating the nature of light and energy. The Hall is open free to the public from 2 until 10 p.m. weekdays and weekends from 1 to 10 p.m.
