Interns Honor Harbor Hospital Radiologist

Dr. William A. Weidner, chief of the radiology department at Harbor General Hospital has been honored for his outstanding contributions to medical education by the 1965-66 class of interns at the hospital.

Dr. Weidner, who is an associate professor of radiology at the UCLA School of Medicine, is the first physician to receive the honor, which will be awarded each year.

"The selection of Dr. Weidner sets in motion an award designed to become a traditional part of the intern graduating classes at Harbor General Hospital," Dr. Craig Christensen, a resident in the Department of Medicine and president of the Intern-Resident Association, said.

"Dr. Weidner was selected by the Class of 1965-66 when it completed the Intern year last summer," he explained, "but it was decided recently to make the award a perpetual record with names of succeeding winners to be inscribed on a plaque to be mounted adjacent to the hospital's auditorium."

A native of Wisconsin, Dr. Weidner received his bachelor of science and M. D. degrees at the University of Wisconsin. He interned in the Medical College of Virginia Hospitals in Richmond, Va., and trained in radiology at UCLA. He served residences in the Seattle, Wash., Veteran's Hospital and at Los Angeles County General Hospital.

The author of several publications, he is a diplomat of the American Board of Radiology and is a member of five other radiology associations.
