

Diet, Not Pregnancy Cause of Tooth Decay

(This is one of a series of articles on dental health prepared by the Harbor Dental Society, an affiliate of the American Dental Association.)

Contrary to popular belief, pregnancy does not cause tooth decay.

Neither does the unborn child absorb calcium from the mother's teeth.

Dental authorities report that if there is an increase in tooth decay during pregnancy, the problem probably is caused by increased consumption of sweets, poor home care of the teeth and failure to visit the dentist regularly.

ONLY A FEW minor gum disorders can result from changes in the hormones or blood vessels during pregnancy, and these can be minimized by proper professional treatment and home care.

As for decay, during pregnancy as during any other time, the teeth require attention to diet and proper dental hygiene.

The toothbuds which will become the child's teeth begin to form about the sixth or eighth week of pregnancy. Food to nourish them comes from the nutrients supplied to the entire fetus, and they require no special foods, but a good, well-rounded diet for their growth.

THE "HARDENING" process, or calcification, of the teeth begins between the fourth and six months of pregnancy, and by the time the baby is born, a considerable part of the crowns of the first teeth are already formed.

The baby's teeth lie deep in the jawbones, under the gums. As the crowns calcify and the roots develop, the teeth push slowly toward the surface. They first usually appear at about six months of age, and a child usually has all 20 of his first, or "deciduous" teeth by the time he's two and a half or three. There is variation, however, in the time at which the teeth come in and also in the order of their appearance.

These first teeth are very important, both to the baby's health and to the health of the permanent teeth that will follow them. A wise mother will see that they have the best of care and are not lost before they should be.

If a first tooth becomes badly decayed, infection may reach and damage the permanent tooth forming beneath. If a first tooth is lost too soon those adjacent to the space will begin to drift into it, narrowing or closing off the space needed by the second tooth. It will probably come in crooked, and require complicated treatment later. It's important to remember, too, that although they're called "baby" teeth, some of them should stay in a child's mouth until he's 11 or 12.

WHAT KIND of care do first teeth require?
• Daily brushing after each meal, by the mother until the child can do it himself.
• Proper diet, with a minimum of sweets; they're a prime cause of tooth decay.
• Fluoridated water. A child should drink fluoridated water from birth to strengthen his teeth against decay throughout his life. If your community does not fluoridate its water, try to interest your community officials in obtaining the measure; also talk to your dentist about topical application of fluoride—painting your child's teeth with a special fluoride solution.

• And when all the first teeth are in, it's time to visit the dentist. In this early visit the dentist can detect decay before it becomes deep and painful. He can also make sure that the permanent teeth are developing as they should.

Only 297 Shopping Days Left

Now we could be wrong on a count or two there... like for instance that Columbus Day thing, and/or Veterans Day (although they should both be considered as National Holidays!) but in any event, the fact still remains, the number of shopping days you have left from here is about 297—give or take a day or so somewhere along the line.

There's one thing certain, though, and that is that there's no limit to the number of days you have to dine out at one of our beautiful dine-outeries! Shopping's not involved! They're ALL great! Let's take a minute now for a classic example! The S.S. Princess Louise, sitting in the water down there in the channel off Terminal Island! Now there's a swinger! The food, the service, and the drinks are just about the best you could want or wish for... not to mention the prices!

Sent a couple of friends down there a week ago tonight to have a bite to eat and a "giant malt" and they couldn't have been happier! Mike Tommehacher of Rolling Hills (hope that guy never gets into public life 'cause they'll never make it on the billboard and some little blonde chick from Santa Monica by the dubious name of Mary Whitman wound up there last Wednesday nite for a "short voyage" and a long dinner, and from all reports we got across this desk, the success was quite howling. (Whaddee-say... Whaddeesay!!!)

In other words, this happy young couple of people had nothing but praise for the S. S. Princess Louise, its cuisine, its service, and its decor.

"And the prices on this boat put me away!" says Mike. And take it from here, this cat should know! For the past few years, during his summer vacations from college in the east, he's a "working-type" man at his folks' "spot" in Gardena. They swing a pretty fancy steak, too, at The Fortune Room... and you just cook it yourself!... is the way the advertising goes!

So for a minute, let's swing on up to Spense Van Winkle's House of Prime on Western (in San Pedro) where the "chow" is strictly from the best and they combine it with comparable service.

There's banquet facilities available at The House of Prime but it's suggested you make yourself a reservation by calling TE 2-2334 'cause they get a bit packed down there every once in a while and with YOUR luck... it'll be your nite!

Don Abney works the keyboard over pretty good in the Capri Room at the House of Prime while Carl Cocco may carry off the vocals for your listening enjoyment. It's food, listening atmosphere, and warmth at The House of Prime.

Now while we're in the general area, how about taking a short ferper down Wilmington way and visit Mike Gomez's Plush Bunny where you can have the time of your life for the price of a few beers.

You've got to visit this spot to really appreciate the Plush Bunny on Pacific Coast Highway (six-ten is the number) ample, The Velvet Turtle! (Are you a turtle?)

Had an occasion to swing by the new spot that's due to open some time after the first of the year (would you believe along about February or March?) and the thought occurred from here, upon reading the advance notices for Sam's Cafe, just what kind of a joint it's going to be.

They're advertising "booths for the ladies!" Now what's that supposed to mean? Y's'pose Wally Botello expects us poor long suffering males to just sit at the bar unless we have a girl to escort?

Anyhoo, Sam's Cafe'll be located on Sepulveda between Hawthorne and Crenshaw and has promise of being one of the more plushy spots in the South Bay Area... but we'll bet, from here, it won't be any plusher than, say for ex-

Say, how long has it been since you've seen a bartender really SHAKE a drink?!

Well you can watch a mechanic in action any old time after six o'clock nites at The Hunting Horn when a mekologist supreme Ken Decker raises high the glass and mixer to give you the kind of drink your dad used to have!

When you combine the cuisine offered at the Hunting Horn along with this kind of bar-action as well as atmosphere and entertainment... PLUS dancing... you've got yourself a hellava time!

Stopped by the Latitude 20 one nite earlier this week and watched Arthur Walsh in action. And believe it to be the truth... here's truly a funny guy! Unfortunately, however, Art closes at the Latitude 20 as of this coming Friday so you still have a day or so to catch a good comic at work! You can also dance to the music of Bill Le Blanc's Trio so take advantage of the advantages!

Then, on Saturday, the 7th it'll be that musician of musicians, Rene Paulo, booked in for a return engagement... AND for a limited booking, so keep it in mind, all ye Rene Paulo fans!

And if it's a play you'd like to take in, then the Las Palmas Theatre on Melrose in Hollywood is doing "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty." Marc London and Ruth Warrick head the veteran cast which has been scoring with a smash hit on the Las Palmas stage. This musical is one of those rare, delightful evenings in the theatre where the accent is on pure entertainment and nothing more.

Tickets can be purchased at any mutual agency and special group rates can be arranged by calling HO 5-7191. That's got to be the craziest Christmas tree in the area down there by the Galley West Restaurant at Marineland.

They've taken that big old spire-like thing that runs up into the sky on which sight-seeing groups ride to the top on sort of a round car-like thing (whew, getting involved here!) and strung all colored lights clear up to the top, surmounting the whole shot with a big star. Understand FR man Phil Deigado climbed up and put 'em all up himself, between stints for the Galley West Restaurant where, incidentally you may partake of a sumptuous repast while ogling the beautiful view afforded from the windows overlooking the Pacific. "And on a clear day, you can see Catalina!"

So that raps it, friends, and by the time this sees any ink, we'll be in Las Vegas... winning YOUR money!
