

Property Owners Warned About Possible Confusion

County Assessor Phil Watson has warned property owners not to be confused by an announcement of changes in assessment procedure printed on the cover of the new state income tax instruction booklet.

put into effect in Los Angeles County at the beginning of his administration four years ago.

place values on property for local property tax purposes, citing the following:

THAT ALL property must be assessed at a publicly-announced uniform percentage of its value; that notice of an increase in assessed value either be mailed to the taxpayer or published in a newspaper; that the period for filing assessment appeals has been extended to two months; and that use restrictions such as zoning be recognized in market value.

for many counties in California, but represented nothing new for local taxpayers.

PROPERTY in Los Angeles County has been assessed at a publicly-announced 25 percent ratio to market value and will continue to be assessed at that ratio.

Watson said. Newspaper publication of all assessment changes was begun upon completion of his first assessment roll in 1963, and supplemented by mail notification of any assessment change in 1966; assessment appeals boards have been operating since

Los Angeles County, petitions are to be filed in the two-month period running from the fourth Monday in September through the fourth Monday in November every year. Some copies of the instruction booklet list the filing period as July 17-Sept. 15, which applies in all counties of the state, except Los Angeles.
