

Program to Offer Area Instruction

An array of day courses, conferences, workshops and lecture series, some providing credit, will be offered by University of California Extension beginning in mid-February throughout Los Angeles County.

Ranging in scope from an introductory course in archeology to a one-day symposium on marriage, the recently inaugurated daytime program has been newly expanded in

Burglars Prowl Through Carport

Burglars entered 11 cars in an apartment carport area early Monday, but apparently left without taking anything, Torrance police reported yesterday.

All 11 cars were unlocked, officers said. The apartment complex is located in the 800 block of Plaza del Amo.

programs can be developed at any time for businesses or groups with specific needs, she adds.

Two programs will be offered at the Fashion Square Del Amo, La Casita. "Development in Early Childhood," beginning Tuesday, Feb. 21, 9:30 to 11:45 a.m., will explore the interrelationship of physical, emotional, intellectual and social growth. A workshop in "Group Counseling for Women," concerned with opportunities in educational, vocational and volunteer activities, will meet on Mondays, Feb. 27 to May 8, 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Instructor will be Dr. Marjorie Dole, counseling psychologist at State College at Long Beach.

ance will be the setting for a course in different media. Further information concerning daytime programs may be obtained from University of California Extension, 3620B W. 182nd St.
