

USC Pharmacy School Gets Check for Grants

HERE'S THE CHECK... Manny Broun (left), executive vice-president of Thrifty Drug Stores, presents a check covering three full tuition scholarships at the University of Southern California's School of Pharmacy to Edward S. Brady, dean of the school. Presentation of the check marks the 14th consecutive year in which the drug chain has offered the scholarships.

Thrifty Drug Stores this week presented a check covering three complete scholarships to the School of Pharmacy of the University of Southern California for the academic year 1967-1968. Edward S. Brady, Dean of the School of Pharmacy, accepted the check in behalf of the university from Manny Broun, executive vice president of Thrifty Drug Stores.

The presentation marked the 14th consecutive year in which the drug chain has presented these scholarships to the USC School of Pharmacy in the interest of assisting and encouraging outstanding students to enter the profession of pharmacy. The administration of the scholarships and selection of the recipients will be under the direction of Dean Brady.

In presenting the scholarships, Broun said "The USC School of Pharmacy enjoys a reputation for excellence that is unrivalled throughout the world and its contribution of preparing skilled pharmacists has earned the gratitude of the community. We at Thrifty Drug Stores recognize the need for an increasing number of pharmacists to meet the unparalleled growth of the community and welcome the opportunity to assist worthy students to pursue this fine career."

Dean Brady revealed the USC School of Pharmacy now has 435 undergraduate and graduate students whose studies are directed by 24 professors and instructors.
