

Schools Get New State Handbook On Drugs Available to Juveniles

Capital News Service
SACRAMENTO — Dr. Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction, has announced distribution to all school districts of a new teachers' guide, "Drug Abuse," which he said should give the schools new ammunition in their fight against juvenile use of drugs.

started by the department of education about a year ago. It is designed to put into the hands of the teachers the most up-to-date information available dealing with LSD, barbiturates, glue sniffing, and marijuana. The handbook will be placed in all school districts in the state before the start of the 1967-68 year. "California schools will now have some brand-new ammunition in their fight against juvenile drug usage," Rafferty said. "In addition to giving our teachers the facts about this growing menace, the new handbook has a complete section devoted to how to put this information across to young people. "I firmly believe that this is the best weapon yet developed in the war against drug usage," he said.
