Shutterbugs of All Ages Invited to Photo Judging

The El Camino College Camera Club will sponsor a Photo Day for area camera enthusiasts May 5 on the college campus.

According to club president Scott Walter the club's first camera day will feature more than 50 models posed around motorcycles, dune buggies, and campus landscaping.

Registration will begin at 11 a.m. when photographers may pay a 75-cent fee and receive a map showing the various areas of the campus where the models are posing. They will also receive a ballot with which to vote in the model competition.

Refreshments will be served throughout the day by members of the El Camino chapter of Beta Phi Gamma, an honorary journalism society. Photographic equipment and a display of award-winning photographs will be exhibited at a trade show presented by the Parkwood Camera Store.

In conjunction with Photo Day, there will be two print competitions, one for high school students only and an open competition which anyone may enter.

The high school contest will be judged May 5, and the open competition, May 19. The last day for entering in the high school contest will be two days prior to judging. All prints entered in either contest must be at least 8x10 inches and should be mounted for presentation.

First, second, and third place ribbons will be awarded in each of the four divisions: Scenic, Sports, News and Human Interest. In addition to the ribbons, scholarships of $50, $25, and $10 will be given by Parkwood Camera Store for the three most outstanding prints entered in the high school competition. Scholarship winners must be present on Photo Day, however.

TROPHIES for the models chosen by photographers to be Miss Photogenic, Miss Personality, and Miss Congeniality will be awarded at 4 p.m. culminating the day's activities.
