Dodgers Sign Up

More than half the Dodgers have signed their contracts for 1968, E. J. Buzie Savasi has announced.

Headed by Don Drysdale, whose contract-signing was revealed earlier, 21 players have autographed their papers or agreed to terms by telephone.

Much of the negotiation has taken place on an across-the-desk basis at Dodger Stadium where players living in this area have been working out Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays in the hope of getting an early jump on a bounce-back campaign.

There are some salary increases being given to Dodger players but, coming off a second-division finish, there also have been some salary cuts. Savasi visions no great difficulty in swinging the remainder of the squad into line long before the team heads for Florida Feb. 24.

Three men acquired in trades this winter have signed their first Dodger contracts—shortstop Zolito Versalles, pitcher Jim (Mudcat) Grant, and utility infielder Paul Popovich.

Versalles and Grant came to Los Angeles in the deal which sent John Roseboro, Ron Perranoski, and Bob Miller to the Twins. Popovich was part of the Lou Johnson deal with the Cubs.

The Dodgers are basing much of their hope for a comeback in 1968 on Versalles and Grant. Versalles was most valuable player and Grant the No. 1 pitcher in the American League in 1967, but both fell on lean seasons last year.

A change of uniforms may help them. Versalles is rated one of the finest shortstops in baseball. Grant will be asked to move into the bullpen ranks but also could become one of the club's five starters. In an earlier visit to Los Angeles his left knee, which bothered him last season, was examined by Dr. Robert Kerlan and a program to strengthen the muscles was outlined for him.

Both Grant and Versalles will be in Los Angeles for the Baseball Writers Dinner at the Hollywood Palladium Feb. 9.

In addition to Drysdale and the new Dodgers, the list of signed players includes pitchers Jim Brewer, Bill Singer, John Duffie, Larry Staab, catchers Jeff Torborg, Jimmy Campanis and Ted Sizemore, infielders Bob Bailey, Tommy Dean and Billy Grabarkewitz, and outfielders Willie Davis, Willie Crawford, Al Ferrara, Fon Fairly, and Len Gabrielson.

Slapsie Maxie Rosebloom, light-heavyweight boxing champion from 1934-1935 declares there must be many changes if boxing is to return to its former importance.

The Champ, who will attend a meeting of boxing executives in Palm Springs, is a candidate for the Hall of Fame. He will leave for Vietnam within a week to entertain the troops.

"Boxing no longer requires that a boxer come up from the ranks, fight amateur fights, then slowly work his way up. We must get back to that system if we are to make boxing the attraction it once was. I don't want to say anything against the sport. It has been good to me. But changes should be made. In the old days, Cassius Clay, who talks loud and big, would not have become what he is.

"The biggest purse I ever received," Maxie declared, "was $4,000. Out of that I had to pay many fees, including agents and sparring partners, so I had only a few hundred left."

Maxie, who comes from the lower Eastside New York, for many years was proprietor of a famous nightclub on Wilshire in Los Angeles. "My name Slapsie was given me by Damon Runyan. I used it for my club," he said.

More recently, Rosenbloom has been active in motion pictures and television. He summarizes his philosophy by stating, "I believe that whatever good we do for others will always be repaid—somehow."

HOME COURT ADVANTAGE ELIMINATED

Gary and Montclair basketball fans are finding it a bit confusing to go to basketball games involving the two schools. If last Friday night's game had been scheduled according to sites used, it would have read "Montclair at Gary at Montclair." The game, won by Gary, 68-64, started a Gary, but a leaky gym roof became unbearable with about four minutes remaining in the second quarter. Rather than postpone the game, school officials decided to move it to Montclair, so players, fans and officials piled into buses and automobiles and traveled across town where the game was completed. It was clearly a case of neither team having home court advantage.

Long Beach Will Hold Congressional Cup Race

The Congressional Cup race will have a Royal yacht race will have a Royal spectator when the starting horn is sounded tomorrow. The Queen Mary, now residing in Long Beach, will form a fitting backdrop for the fourth annual sailing race sponsored by the Long Beach Yacht Club. In August 1964, the Congress of the United States authorized the Long Beach Yacht Club to hold an annual match race series, with the winner receiving a handsome silver trophy on behalf of the legislative body. Participants were to be the ten finest skippers in the country with the hope of creating a west coast counter-

Attendance at high school basketball games has not been overwhelming this season, but a "shot in the arm" is expected Friday night when North High is host to Redondo. The game—first of the second round—is expected to be a rematch of the earlier 56-50 outing won by the North Saxons.

North goes into the game with a 6-0 record with Redondo (4-1) closest in pursuit. The Seahawks were scheduled to finish out Round 1 today against rival Mira Costa.

South High is host to Hawthorne today and the Inglewood Sentinels Friday night. North drew a bye today. The Saxons broke a school scoring record Friday with a 100-62 triumph over Santa Monica.

North relies on Jim Nielson, Bill Taylor, Dan Hansen, Dan Anderson, Bob Jones and Kirk West for the bulk of action. Against Samohi, however, Coach Skip Enger used his entire squad.

Redondo will counter with the excellent shooting of Anthony Chaffins, Robbe Fowler and Mark Springer, and the all-around play of Alan Oddi, Bruce Gerhardt, and Willie Glen.

DAVE BENEDETTI'S Bishop Montgomery Knights travel to Crespi Friday for the start of the second round in the Camino Real League.

The Knights went into last night's game against Murphy with a 4-0 record. The squad is led by Larry Wiggins, Bob Jamison, Steve Patterson, Jim Roach and Greg Collins.

TORRANCE runs into front running Morningside in the Sky League's top attraction Friday. Torrance will try to improve its 2-2 record against the unbeaten monarchs.

The two schools were co-champions with 9-1 records a year ago. Once victorious West High wraps up the first half of the Pioneer League at Lawndale. Unbeaten Aviation is host to El Segundo.

South Grad Picked for All-Stars

Steve French, former South High basketball player, has been selected to play for the Air Force all-star team representing the Lajes Air Base in the Azores Islands, Portugal.

The team will participate in the Military Airlift Command Tournament next week. Steve scored 480 points for a 15-point average as his team compiled a 23-7 record.

Beban is the 1967 Heisman Trophy winner, emblematic of the best collegiate player of the year.
