The Mail Ego

By Terrence O'Flaherty

Fan club presidents write once a month and readers write when they're mad, but the most faithful pen-pals of any television critic are the studio publicists. The following nuggets have been panned from this week's river of golden press agency:

NBC: "I once thought of studying archeology or preparing for the diplomatic service," said Denise Alexander. "But I've had so much fun this year that I think I'll stay with acting."

"Miss Alexander plays Susan in the NBC soap-opera 'Days of Our Lives.' Susan became pregnant last season and decided to marry David, put the baby up for adoption and get a divorce so David could marry her best friend Julie, whom he really loved. But after the baby was born Susan decided against the divorce and one day while David played with the child he accidentally dropped him and he died. Susan killed David but was acquitted. Then David's mother shot Susan making her an invalid for life. Now Julie, who is pregnant with David's baby is out to kill Susan."

Thank God she didn't go into the diplomatic service!

"Barbara Feldon of NBC's 'Get Smart' doesn't read her lines until the day she comes on the set. She says: 'That way each day is a surprise and it's more fun.'

That's what's wrong with television.

"Marie Cheatham, one of the regulars on NBC's 'Days of Our Lives' says the show has not only helped her professionally but has given her time to knit a sweater, finish a novel, and learn Spanish. All this she says has been done between rehearsals."

If this is true, "Days of Our Lives" is the only rehearsed soap opera on the air.

ABC: "The submarine sets created by Irwin Allen for 'Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea' are so authentic that it wasn't necessary for Bob Dowdell or any other member of the crew of the 'Seaview' to slip aboard a real sub."

have sorely missed that picture window.

"John Edward Friend, script editor for Compass Productions of Hallmark Hall of Fame epics, is as lean and elegant as a flamingo but he is not scared to get his feet wet when he must trim a scene for the home screens."

I know several editors who are lean and one who is elegant but I never heard of one who removed his shoes even at the beach.

"Linda Cristal, lovely co-star of ABC's 'The High Chaparral,' is a positive thinker. 'Each day is like a present,' she said. 'I open it to see what surprise it will bring.'"

I'll bet she never said that at all.

"David Canary, star of NBC's 'Bonanza' sang 'I'm on My Way' recently at a telethon but the band couldn't get the proper beat. I told them it was from 'Porgy and Bess' said Canary. 'They asked if it was anything like Frankie and Johnny?'

And what did you say then, David?

"Eddie Hodges does his first acting in a year on CBS's 'Cimarron Strip.' I took the role because I have never played a heavy before and this is a very meaty part," he said. He also sings, writes music, is an avid and expert still photographer and is planning to produce and direct a film. 'I was to do everything but I was 21 on March 5 and there's so little time!'

I know what you mean, Eddie.
