Motorcycle Racing Set At Ascot

The 1968 Southern California motorcycle racing season will begin Friday night, April 5, at Ascot Park in Gardena.

Managing Director J. C. Agajanian reports the big cycles will race every Friday.

Cycle racing has been a Southern California sports custom for more than 30 years. It has been under the Agajanian and American Motorcycle Association aegis at Ascot for the past several years.

Agajanian also reported there will be steeplechase cycle racing the first Saturday of each month, starting with the opener on Saturday night, April 6.

Highlights of the season will be a pair of National Championship races, one on the flat course and the other over the jumps, in summer and fall.

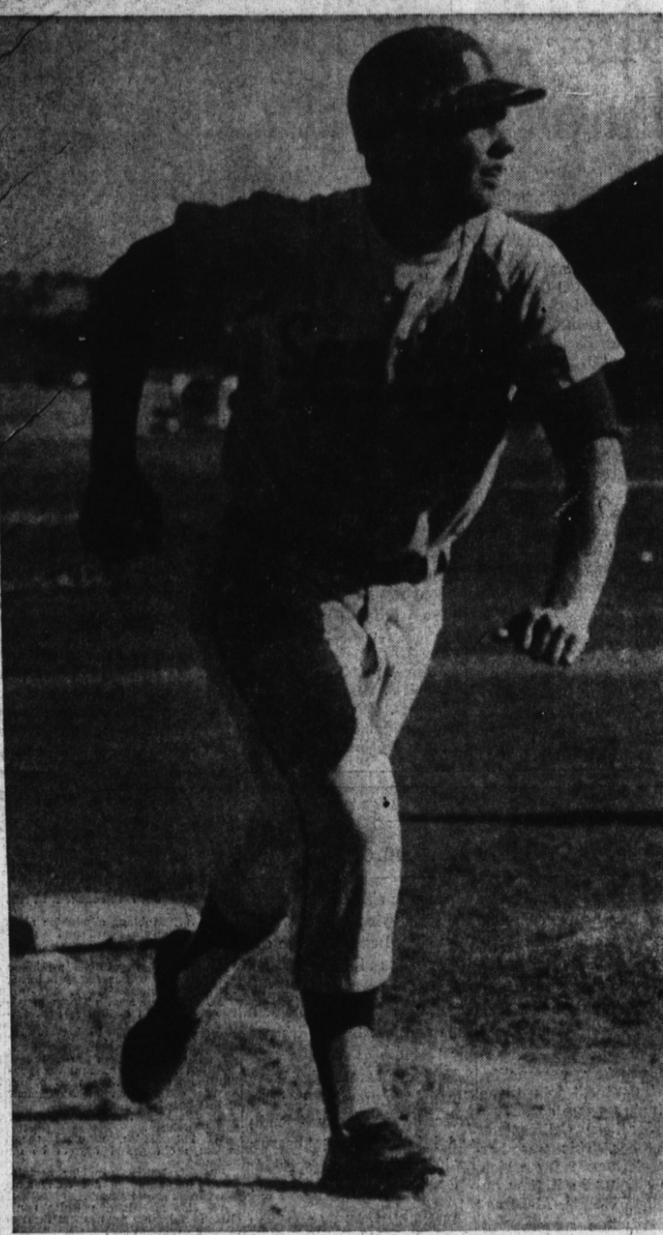

Dan Haaby will be the defending champion for the flat-track action, the Lawndale rider having turned back perennial kingpin Sammy Tanner of Long Beach in 1967.
