first aid courses by Red Cross volunteers on a regular schedule, Mrs. Morgan said. Information on the time and location of the classes may be obtained by calling Red Cross.

She went on to warn, "If you feel an electrical charge—if your hair stands up on end or your skin tingles—lightning may be about to strike you. Drop to the ground immediately."

MRS. MORGAN also passed along these additional safety tips for electrical storms from the Environmental Science Services Administration:

Stay away from open doors and windows, fireplaces, radiators, stoves, metal pipes, sinks, and plug-in electrical equipment like radios, television sets, lamps, and refrigerators.

Do not use plug-in electrical equipment like hair dryers, electric toothbrushes, or electric razors during an electrical storm.

Do not use the telephone. Lightning may strike the telephone lines outside.

If you are traveling in an automobile, stay where you are. Automobiles offer excellent lightning protection.

Electric Storms Can Be Shocking

If lightning strikes—and it does frequently, even in Southern California—the electrical shock can cause a victim to stop breathing.

First aid and electrical storm safety tips were reviewed this week by Mrs. Ruth Morgan, Red Cross Safety programs chairman for Southern Los Angeles communities.

"Lightning can strike anywhere, but it usually seeks the highest point," Mrs. Morgan said. "Any electrical shock might cause a person to stop breathing. If this happens, fast action is necessary. Immediate mouth-to-mouth resuscitation may save the victim's life."

"PEOPLE on golf courses, in open areas, or who are in or on the water are in special danger during electrical storms. The best course of action is to get out of the open when a storm threatens," Mrs. Morgan said.

Candidate Launches Campaign

More than 100 volunteers for State Assembly candidate Paul Lookinland have kicked off the "People to People" phase of the campaign.

Walking in the Vista Del Oro and Palos Verdes precincts, Lookinland and his volunteers met and talked with several thousand voters of the 68th Assembly district.

"Here in San Pedro, as in Avalon last month, our reception was warm and enthusiastic," Lookinland said.

"Our People-to-People approach is something seldom seen in this district and will be our key to victory in November."

In order to cover the entire district, the Lookinland Committee has scheduled one neighborhood march for each week remaining in the campaign. The candidate also spends several hours each day walking through the district, meeting the voters.

Among the volunteers are members of the "Youth for Lookinland Committee.

"It's a thrilling experience to have so many fine young people choose you as their candidate and be willing to work and become completely involved in the campaign," the candidate said.

"These are the leaders of tomorrow. The world will be in good hands."

A Republican, Lookinland is a native of San Pedro and an administrator with the Los Angeles City School District.
