Kanine Korner

By Francis X. Lohmann

Dogs, too, get spring fever! In all the lands all over the earth, return of warming sunshine brings the pleasing spring fever. Dogs, too, are its willing victims.

Dogs find increasing delight in their daily vagabonding. The plain soft earth after many months of hard core cold, presents myriads of fresh newborn smells and as anyone who loves dogs can tell you, the hors d'oeuvres of a canine menu are the multitude of smells awaiting detection by the dog's nose in every spot and space.

The paws of the dog itch to be soothed by digging in the once-again soft ground of springtime. Keep this in mind and act accordingly. A neighbor's lawn has just been planted with flowering seeds. Be careful, be alert, and above all be considerate or you will justifiably incur your neighbor's enmity. Act before it is too late! Be certain that your dog harkens to your voice or else you will have to retrieve him in the front yard next door happily scratching up the earth and grass with all fours and looking up at you with a devil may care "haven't we got fun" expression.

Its your dog's forgivable way of expressing spring fever. Take him to a wooded area some place out of the range of private property and unleash him for his recreational periods. Obeyance train your dog to stay off your neighbor's lawn.

I THINK that every family should have a dog, its like having a perpetual baby. A dog is the plaything and crony of the entire household, and greater love than that dispensed by your faithful dog would be impossible to find. Remember this! No one is truly Christian unless his dog is better off for it.

BARKS AND YAPS — Dog trainers around the nation acclaim Liv-A-Snaps as the answer to Bowser's training problems. No dog owner should be without a supply and that's for doggone sure! Liv-A-Snaps are available at supermarkets and pet shops.

Monte Rosa's Italian restaurant in NYC has a Cocker Spaniel who acts as the official headwaiter. The 5-year-old Cocker named Topaz personally greets the patrons. How about that? Famed bandleader Guy Lombardo is an avid Poodle fancier. Bob Cummings favors the Collie, and Sandra Dee goes for the German Shepherd breed of dog.

BREAD OF THE WEEK — Skye Terrier . . . The Skye Terrier, another member of the numerous family of terriers, which are natives of Scotland, takes his name from the Isle of Skye, also the homeland of the Cairn Terrier. There is reason to believe that the Skye has looked much as he does today for at least four centuries.

The Skye still makes no show of face or body by reason of their lovely flowing coats, and the most frequently asked question about the breed is, "How does he see?" His long hanging bangs do not seem to interfere with the Skye's vision in the least, for his sight and hearing is extraordinarily acute.

Several of the other terriers outnumber the Skye in registrations and popularity as of today, but no terrier breed has been in general favor as long as the Skye Terrier.

HE HAS been the fashionable and favored pet of English nobility for over a century. He is still a great favorite in Scotland and England today.

The Skye's ornamental appearance does not mean he has forgotten his heritage as a hearty, vermin-killing terrier. Given the opportunity, he is still an alert, active, gamble-to-the-death terrier.

The Skye Terrier tips the scales at about 25 pounds and in height nine inches.
