

INGLEWOOD'S NEW C. OF C.
CHIEF

The Torrance fair had the honor and right of entertaining Inglewood's newly elected president of the chamber of commerce, Mr. George M. Sutton, who was recently the unanimous choice of the directors of that institution.

The election of the board of directors last week was followed by the choice of president that resulted without argument in Mr. Sutton's selection. The board of directors chosen were George M. Sutton, W. G. Brown, Clyde Woodworth, S. M. Anderson, Roy A. Bush, F. D. Parent, F. A. Zillgitt, H. B. Lawrence, Carl Matson, S. M. Green, W. S. Magee, Geo. C. Malloy.

It is probable that a secretary for the newly organized chamber will be elected this week.

Fair Attracts Visitors From A-far

Among the distinguished visitors to Torrance who will remain over for a glimpse of the fair were A. S. Woodsum, a wealthy retired business man of Los Angeles; H. M. Skeels of Reno, Nevada; and E. M. Searl, a property owner of this city, who lives in Los Angeles. Mr. Searl who owns property on Carson avenue and who has not been in Torrance for some time, is amazed at the rapid growth of the city and surroundings and is more than ever confident that nothing can now retard the growth of Torrance into the chief industrial city of Southern California.

Gilmore Saxaphone Six Of Long Beach Become Famous

One of the most important features of the Torrance Free Fair this year, was the advent of Gilmore's Saxophone Six into the merryment and fun-making entertainment offered every night in the various tents. These six musicians were made up as clowns, and Oh, Boy! How they can Jazz. Just at a time when they think the crowd is a trifle unappreciative they have a way of caressing, coaxing and tantalizing those saxy instruments that make you feel so devilish, and they sure get a spark. Frequently we have heard the remark, "What would this fair be without the Saxy Six." Last evening Mr. Gilmore scored the hit of the evening with his accordian and tonight promises to wind up the show, just before it passes into history, with some more of his famous selections.

They come from Long Beach and the following is a list of those who are made-up in the sextette:

- L. A. Ward—Soprano,
- P. Hawkins—Alto.
- J. Wallis—Atlo.
- F. Tucker—Tenor.
- K. Auge—Tenor.
- Carlton P. Gilmore—Bass.
