GOV. STEPHENS COMING

One of the chief features of Long Beach's first annual Exposition, to be held in the municipal auditorium, that city, beginning January 31st and ending February 5, will be an address delivered by Hon. William D. Stephens. The address will deal with the industrial development of the state, with particular reference to the strides made by Long Beach in that particular.—Gov. Stephens will be at the Exposition Saturday, February 5th, which date is also Mayor's Day.

SNAP SHOTS

While we are sending food to the starving Armenians, why not give them all the parsnips we've got left over here and won't eat.

The world may owe every man a living, but the wise man is the one who knows it takes a hustler to collect it.

And still another difference between death and taxes is that death is sometimes painless.

Women may not know enough to discuss politics, but you don't find 'em rolling a peanut along the street to pay an election bet.

SNAP SHOTS

The best resolution any citizen can make for this year is to resolve circumstances.

Reading of the crime wave sweeping over our big cities, it strikes us that using the pails a little more might help some.

It has about gotten around to the point where some men never smile until they almost run over you with their automobile.

Those who used to gather at the livery stable now gather at the garage—and there hasn't been much improvement in the odor, either.

Occasionally we meet a man so full of self-importance he thinks heaven is a place where everybody takes off their hat to the boss.

We agree with the man who said the other day that he'd hate to own a whole orchard if every tree was as expensive as a Christmas tree.

This man D'Annunzio, who has been creating so much trouble in Italy has laid down his sword and will again write poetry. That's what you call going from bad to worse.

We went a little slower in the days of horse and buggy, but we didn't lose any time at filling stations after we'd once handed Dobbins his oats.
