Growth of City in 1927 Shown by Phone List

Increase in Torrance Last Year More Than 13 Percent

Torrance had a growth of 80 telephones, or 13.60 per cent increase, during 1927, according to Fred W. Smith, district manager of The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company. This is a larger growth than that of 1926, when there were 61 telephones added, and an 11.57 per cent increase. Subscribers in Torrance now have local connections between over 688 telephones.

"This growth brings added usefulness to every telephone in the exchange," said Mr. Smith. "The more telephones there are inter-connected in the exchange, the more you can call, and, therefore, this 13.60 per cent increase in scope of service of Torrance exchange subscribers, is of real value and interest to each telephone user."

Wurlitzer Offers Piano Instruction Free to Customers

Introducing a decided innovation in the merchandising of pianos, the Rudolph Wurlitzer Co. with a direct branch at 1228 El Prado, Torrance, announces the appointment of the Christensen School of Popular Music to take charge of the piano instruction department for the 35 Wurlitzer Southern California stores.

In line with this new policy of providing a service of instruction to piano buyers the Wurlitzer Company announces a course of piano lessons with every piano sold. No charge is to be made for these lessons which will be under the direct supervision of Mr. P. H. Kaufman, director of the Christensen School.

The Christensen method of instruction is quoted as being one of the most successful ever introduced in the teaching of popular music. The usual high standard of instruction will be maintained for the benefit of Wurlitzer piano buyers it is said.

DISHES WE LIKE

A delightful way of serving cauliflower is as follows: Cook the vegetable broken into flowerets until tender in boiling salt water. Serve in a drawn-butter sauce, adding an egg well beaten to give richness and color. Season well and pour over the hot cauliflower. Small-sized beets cooked until tender, then hollowed out to form a cup, well buttered and filled with buttered French peas, make another delectable dish. Serve with half of a spring chicken, for a dinner dish. With balls of parsley potatoes, the cauliflower and beet all on the dinner plate, one has a very good combination.

Another Virginia Baked Ham.—The importance of a good ham well cooked makes the difference between an ordinary ham and one that you remember with satisfaction. Select a ham weighing seven or eight pounds. Wash the ham thoroughly, sprinkle with soda and rub and rinse well in cold water. Place the ham in a deep kettle with ten peppercorns, six cloves, one-half teaspoonful of celery seed, one-half teaspoonful of ground cinnamon and a quart of sweet cider. Cover with boiling water and simmer for five hours. Simmering means just that, not boiling, as that will toughen the ham. Take from the kettle and remove the skin, sprinkle the surface with brown sugar, using two tablespoonfuls; stick cloves at intervals, rub with buttered crumbs and egg and place in a very hot oven to brown. Serve with currant sauce.

Virginia Macaroni.—Boil one-inch pieces of macaroni in boiling salted water until tender. Dash cold water over it, drain and put half of it into a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with one-half tablespoonful of butter, one-half teaspoonful of mustard, one-fourth cupful of grated cheese; repeat, pour over one and one-half cupfuls of white sauce, cover with buttered crumbs and bake in a hot oven until the crumbs are brown. ## Brimless Hats Now Glory in Beguiling Ornamentation

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

The theory that millinery "undorned is adorned the most" is passing. After so long a period of exaggerated simplicity the feminine love for the beautiful asserts itself and once more we are to be treated in "millinery concoctions" that are beguiling in detail as well as flattering in becomingness.

Evidently it is devolving upon the little brimless types to convey the message of more charm, more artful handiwork, more novelty for millinery of the future. At any rate they are doing a noble part toward creating a vogue of greater elaboration.

From the millinery collection here pictured, it will readily be seen that hats for midwinter wear are coming out strong in point of glitter and color and intriguing handwork as well as unique design.

The interesting item about the black velvet toque at the top of the group is its curious animal ornament of rhinestones. These quaint jeweled dogs, such as shown here, also birds, beetles and the like, are very much in fashion. They are really extremely smart and so ornamental that little or no other trimming is required.

A clever thing about the other hats here shown is the unique side-dip or earlap effects they display. Most of the new skullcaps trend that way.

Each of these models emphasizes the vogue for intriguing detail and elaboration. The hat to the left shows one of the flower-like ornaments made of thickest colorful glass beads, interworked with glittering tinsel.

Handsome beadwork and braiding beautify the velvet hat to the right. Its unique helmet-like contour bespeaks newest fashion.

To the left below an intricate design of gold beads and metallic threadwork transforms a simple velvet toque into a "thing of beauty and a joy forever."

The last chaparral in the group is even handsomer than the one before it, if such is possible. It reveals a clever patterning of tiny gold beads which again stresses the elegance trend. (Copyright, 1927 W. N. U.)

Because of price fluctuations and varying conditions in different localities, it is impractical to set an inflexible figure on the cost of constructing the house pictured above. However, the Pioneer Paper Co., Los Angeles, Calif., will furnish an accurate estimate of the cost on request. Please refer to Plan No. 6. Designed by Ernest Irving Freese, Architect.

DIGNITY, unity and charming simplicity characterize this comfortable little five-room dwelling. Nice interior arrangement and roominess, for a small home, promise real comfort. For a roof of this proportion, a solid green would go well with the red brick chimney and light tan or gray body of the walls.
