Lawrence Says County Governments Are Worst

"Of all governments, county governments are the worst," Hugh E. Lawrence, mayor of Inglewood and candidate for Los Angeles county supervisor from the fourth district declared while on a recent visit to this community.

"That statement was made by experts who have investigated county governments all over the United States," the candidate continued. "It has been found that incompetency, ignorance and inefficiency, prevail to such a degree in county administrative offices that the situation is alarming."

"I doubt if all this is due to wilful crookedness and graft on the part of county officials. More often it is caused by a number of things including political pretensions, the officials' inability to co-operate, petty jealousies, appointment of the wrong kind of men to subordinate offices, giving ear to political 'pull', failure to study closely the needs of the county, etc., etc."

He thinks the remedy that will bring competency to county administrative bodies, is for county supervisors to spend more time out in their districts, talking over problems with the people, learning to sympathize with the people, studying their needs, trying to solve their problems and figuring ways to give them the full value of their tax dollars.

A dollar spent for taxes should be a dollar spent for efficient public service and nothing else.

"County problems should be studied just like mathematics and the solutions should be just as exacting correct."

Mr. Lawrence said that if he is elected supervisor, he expects to spend every hour of his spare time out in the various parts of his district talking over public matters with the people.

The candidate is a past president of Inglewood Rotary and is an Elk and a Mason. He has spent most of his 44 years as a retail merchant.

Inglewood people say the vote for him in their city at the August primary will be practically unanimous.

BEG YOUR PARDON
Through a misunderstanding on the part of the reporter The Herald made an error last week in recording that fact that dog license taxes are now due.

The Herald reported that "Towers must have a tag or stay in his own back yard." This statement led to an erroneous impression that dogs kept at home did not require tags.

Chief Calder was besieged with requests from dog owners that they be given back their money. The city ordinance regarding dog licenses stipulates that all dogs must be tagged, whether they are kept at home or not.

The Herald hastens to correct the error in last week's paper.

CANDY SALE

LEAVES HOSPITAL
Mrs. J. H. Robinson, who underwent a serious operation at the Jared Sidney Torrance Memorial Hospital in June, was removed to her home in Redondo Beach Sunday.

She feels that her early return home is due in a great measure to the efficient treatment she received in the hospital. Mrs. Robinson wishes to thank her many friends in Torrance for their good wishes and the many beautiful flowers she received.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clarkson returned Tuesday from Santa Cruz and Gilroy Hot Springs. Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson visited friends in Santa Cruz. Mr. Clarkson has now fully recovered from his recent illness.

Miss Anna Fitzhugh of Palo Alto is leaving today for her home, after a two weeks' visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Fitzhugh.

Persons attending the show were high in their praises of Carleton Bell, moving spirit of the show. Mr. Bell, moving spirit of the show, is in this movement to beautify Torrance and other nearby communities. Mr. Bell originated the idea of the show and is responsible more than any other individual for its signal success.

It is expected that the show next year will be held in a larger exhibition room, possibly at the High School gymnasium. Lovers of flowers believe that the Torrance District show may become famous in the Southland and that activities of the garden club will be reflected in a few years in a much more beautiful city.

Cancel Torrance Sign at Keystone
A delegation of citizens from Keystone appeared before the directors of the Torrance Chamber of Commerce Monday afternoon to request the board not to erect a Torrance Neon sign over the intersection of Carson street and Harbor boulevard. The Keystoneers pointed out that the sign would hang in the very center of their community and would interfere with plans which they have made for a sign of their own at this point.

Directors of the Chamber assured the delegation from the neighboring community that Torrance does not wish in any way to interfere with Keystone plans and agreed not to erect the sign since it did not meet with the approval of Keystone residents.

A Neon sign directing traffic to Torrance will be erected, however, at Truck boulevard and Carson street and another at Redondo boulevard and Hawthorne Road.

Two New Torrance Industries Using Steel as Raw Material, Start Their Operations Here

That the existence of a steel mill in Torrance promises to bring to this city many industries which use steel for raw material was evidenced again this week when announcements of two new industries here were authorized.

One is the Hall Metal Products Company with its new plant at 1811 23th street and the other a company owned by Earl Robinette, which is operating on West Carson street in the manufacture of water bottle, stands and other ornamental metal products.

The market for the products of both of these companies on the Coast is such that the success of both seems assured.

Roofing Company's Plant Now Going

Newton L. Hall, head of the Hall Metal Products Company has been engaged in the roofing business for years. The roofing product which he is manufacturing here out of Columbia sheet steel is the result of his long experience and technical knowledge of roofing. Experts who have examined his product declare it to be the most practical and slightly sheet roofing on the market today.

The Hall company roofing is of coated zinc or copper sheet steel, made in unusually large units. From six to ten pieces will cover a space 100 feet square. The units allow a generous lap on the side four inches wide and two inches high and six inches on the ends.

The shape when formed in the sheet by the powerful machinery installed at the local plant will stand all sorts of hard usage. The roof is unusually practical and in addition is architecturally beautiful. It represents a sound but new departure in roofing. Installed it resembles tiling and when viewed broadside presents a decidedly unique effect.

The roofing weighs less than two pounds per square foot and requires no extra structural strength to support it. It is nailed directly to the roof sheathing and is clinched underneath. When in place it shows no irregularities so often seen in roofs made of smaller units. It may be used for new roofing or laid over old roofs.

When used over old roofing it gives a completely new and neat appearance to any building. Mr. Hall is especially enthusiastic over it for use on California houses built prior to the stucco type of dwellings.

"Many of these houses," he said, "are now so out of date that they are unsalable. When re-roofed with our product they present a completely changed and attractive appearance."

The press which forms the roofing from the sheets is the largest in use on the Pacific Coast. It is 12 feet long and has a stroke of five inches.

The Torrance company's product is being sold only through jobbers and dealers and a steadily increasing demand for the Hall roofing is being enjoyed by the local company.

Local Woman Has Poem Dedicated to Her at Sea

Mrs. Therese Simon Likes Life on S. S. California

Mrs. Therese O. Simon, residing at 1819 1/2 Gramercy avenue, who sailed recently on the steamship California via Panama Canal to New York, sends us an interesting glimpse of life on board the palatial steamer through a poem written and dedicated to Mrs. Simon by a traveling companion and new friend, Mrs. C. E. Brumbaugh of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Simon expects to spend several months in the east among friends and relatives.

The poem follows:
"CALIFORNIA
"Proudly moves the 'California',
Stately hostess of the seas;
Well guarded is her precious cargo,
With gracious smiles, she strives to please.

Gliding o'er the broad Pacific
She points with pride to sights made new.

When seen again with new-made friendships,
Till foreign shores come into view,
O'er these shores, well protected,
Her guests are sped, to while the hours.

Returning laden, with rich treasures,
Like children, with gathered May-time flowers.

Round her festive board they gather,
At the sounding of the gong;
A bounteous feast is set before them,
In satisfied comfort they linger long.

Fongies are loosed, hearts made
Away with arrogance and pride!
East is west! West is east!
All are brothers, side by side.

As the guests of 'California'
For two weeks, her decks they've trod,
Hark! it not made all more tender,
And renewed their faith in God?

Taught all to be kind and trusting,
A little more inclined to please
Here's to you, dear 'California',
Stately Hostess of the Seas."

Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Briney was in Los Angeles yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hansen returned this week after a stay of a few days at Pismo Beach.

Ornamental Metal Company Is Busy

Mr. Robinette's staff is busy at present in the West Carson street plant on a large order for water jar stands from the Crystal Water Company. In addition C. S. Leslie, superintendent of the plant is at work on a number of artistic stands for plants and shrubs. Other articles of ornamental metal will also be made.

The plant is equipped with machinery which reduces production costs to a minimum. The only spot and butt welder of its kind in the west is in use at the shop and other equipment such as shears is of the most modern variety.

The company is using small bars and angles made by Columbia. Friends of Mr. Robinette and Mr. Leslie have every reason to believe that the venture will be a complete success.
