How to Play BRIDGE

ARTICLE No. 16

Hearts—A, K, 9, 7
Clubs—5, 6, 7, 8
Spades—A, 8, 4

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one heart. A bid one spade. Y bid three hearts and all passed. A led the king of spades and Y's hand was placed on the table. It was now up to Z, the dealer, to figure out a small club, his bid of three hearts and, if he found that possible, to try for game.

After carefully looking over the hand, Z saw that he must lose one spade, one club and at least two diamond tricks; therefore game was impossible. His contract was only three hearts, however, so it was possible to score three hearts if he could stop the hand that he would lose only two diamond tricks. Of course, if the hearts did not break—that is if either opponent held four hearts to the jack-ten—the declarer saw he must also lose a heart trick. However, such a distribution was unlikely as both his hand and the dummy's were normal hands.

In playing this hand, Z should win the first spade trick and then lead one round of hearts to ascertain whether or not A or B is void of hearts. He should then lead the eight of spades. Whichever opponent wins this trick will probably lead a club or a heart, which Z should win and lead his last spade, trumping in Y's hand.

If more than two rounds of trumps are necessary to take out the opponent's trumps, the third round should be led. Then the ace king and a small club, after winning which one of the opponents must lead either a diamond, a spade or a club. If a diamond is led, Z is sure to win at least one diamond trick. If a spade or a club is led, Z trumps and discards a diamond in the dummy so that again he loses only two diamonds. Work this hand out for practice, particularly to see what happens if Z himself leads the diamonds.

Here is a problem hand given in the preceding article that is another good example of the declarer's proper play:

No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid one heart and all passed. If A opened the nine of spades, how should Z plan the play of the hand?

Should allow B to win the first spade trick so that if A has two spades, he cannot lead the second spade and thus be able to trump the third round. If Z wins the first spade trick and leads trumps, A will win the second or third heart trick, lead the five of spades and trump the third round. Played in this way A B will save game for they will make one spade, one diamond and two

There are no trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y Z win five of the six tricks against any defense?

Z should lead the five (not the deuce) of clubs which Y should win with the queen. B has two plays: first, to play the trey of clubs; second, to play the nine of clubs.

First: Suppose at trick one, B plays the trey of clubs. Y should now lead the four of clubs which B must win with the nine. B is thus forced to lead hearts up to Y's hand. Y thus makes the king and eight of hearts. Z should discard the jack and nine of spades. A is forced to make one discard. He can discard either his queen of spades or the four of diamonds. If A discards the queen of spades, Y's deuce of spades and Z's seven of diamonds win the balance of the tricks. If A discards the four of diamonds, Z's seven and trey of diamonds win the balance of the tricks.

Second: Suppose at trick one, B plays the nine of clubs. Y should now lead the four of clubs and A's best discard is the deuce of hearts. He cannot discard the queen of spades or he will lose all of the tricks. If he discards a diamond he will lose all but one trick. Y should now lead the king of hearts. Z should discard the trey of diamonds. Y should now lead the deuce of spades, forcing A in the lead. A must now lead a diamond to Z who wins the trick and leads his good spade. Played in this way Y Z must win all but one of the six tricks.

How to Play BRIDGE

Probably the great majority of players would say that the most enjoyable part of Auction is to play the combined hands of the declarer and the dummy. The declarer, as he is called, is the most important player of the four; he has the center of the stage and it is his play, rather than that of his opponents, that interests the bystanders.

The fact that the declarer plays the dummy hand as well as his own gives him a tremendous advantage over his opponents. He knows which twenty-six cards are against him, whereas each opponent has to guess as to which thirteen cards his partner and the declarer respectively hold. The declarer can throw the lead into an opponent's hand and know exactly how and when he can regain it. For all of these reasons, a mistake by the declarer is less excusable than one by either of his opponents.

To get all that is possible out of the twenty-six cards held by the dummy hand and his own is a fascinating problem for every declarer, and the proper means to obtain this wished-for result should be mastered by all players.

In the first place, when the player on the left leads and the dummy hand is placed on the table, the declarer should take a reasonable amount of time to note the cards held in his own and in the dummy hand, and then plan his line of play. Primarily, the declarer should try to make sure of his contract, and if that contract isn't sufficient for game, he also should try to figure out a plan for game. This should be done as completely as possible before he plays the first trick.

The following hand is a good example of how the declarer figured out the proper way to make his contract:

Hearts—Q, 8, 6, 4, 3
Clubs—A, K, 6, 4, 3
Diamonds—Q, 6, 2
Spades—7, 6

Business Men Favor Diversion of Ball Team Subsidy to Other Use

Business men of Torrance at their weekly luncheon Wednesday noon went on record, 37 to 3 in favor of discontinuance of the $100-a-month subsidy for the Torrance ball team and diversion of the fund to community enterprises which might interest more people. Three declined to go on record in the roll call.

Several speakers declared that they were not opposed to the ball team but thought the same amount of money spent in other channels might produce greater results and interest more people.

The vote which was taken was requested by the directorate of the Chamber of Commerce so that they and members of the city council might be acquainted with the general attitude regarding the ball team appropriation.

It was suggested that the money from the discontinuance of the $100-a-month subsidy for the Torrance ball team be used to advantage in the promotion of the Harbor district. It was with such a plan in mind that 27 out of 30 who voted went on record as favoring an investment in trade promotion rather than in the team.

The result of the informal ballot will be sent to the directors of the chamber of commerce and to the council.

Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Hess and daughters of Poppy street and their guest, Mrs. Hess senior, enjoyed a day at the Los Angeles playgrounds in the San Bernardino mountains.

Dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Gertzen of Cherry street were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Luck of 257th street.

Miss Melva Johnson of 257th street was a houseguest last week of Misses Violet Hasty and Ann Espin of Anaheim.

Mrs. H. B. Wilson and daughter Mrs. Ross Robertson of Los Angeles were guests Friday of Mrs. Wilson's sister Mrs. S. A. Wheaton of Redondo boulevard.

Mark Francis of Flower street and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Willacy of Los Angeles attended Sunrise services at Mt. Rubidoux.

Frank Wilson and George Wilkinson of Los Angeles spent the weekend at their respective homes here.

Mr. and Mrs. Coy F. Farquhar of Redondo boulevard were recent overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Farquhar at Carlsbad and also visited Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Johnston at their ranch near there.
