P. E.'s Triumph Over Doheny Men

Second Game of Play-off Series Results in 10-1 Victory for P. E.

The aggregation representing the Pacific Electric's entry in the Industrial League hit its stride early in last Wednesday night's game with the Doheny Stone Drill group, and the result was a complete washout for the Doheny men.

"At no stage of the contest was there any reasonable doubt as to the outcome, and throughout the last five innings the P. E. men continued to pile up an imposing lead. At the end of the seven-inning fray the Electric's emerged the victors to the tune of ten to one, and were still going strong.

Gribben, for the winners, pitched air-tight ball, and his support was practically faultless. He demoted that he is one of the classiest pitchers in the league, and on several occasions he twirled himself out of situations which appeared dangerous.

Atwood again did mound duty for the Drillers, and although he was master of the situation most of the time, he issued several free passes, and had his slow ball knocked out of the lot on several occasions.

Wednesday night's fray was the second of a five game series to determine the championship of the industrial league. The Doheny men won the first game on Monday night last, and the P. E. team evened up the series by copping Wednesday's contest. The third game of the series, originally scheduled for this week end, will not be played until Monday evening, it was announced.

As a result of their decisive victory Wednesday, the P. E.'s have been installed as favorites to cop the series. However, the Doheny men are a fighting club, and are liable to upset the dope at any time.

Score by innings for Wednesday's game follows: Pacific Electric... 0 0 2 2 1 3 3—10 Doheny Stone... 0 1 0 0 0 0 0—1

Paul Vonderhage, Kiwanian, usually sets his evening meal at 6 o'clock. But last Thursday night he ate it early and went down to play in that Kiwanis-Rotary ball game. In the last of the seventh he came to bat. There were two out. The score was 6 to 5 in favor of Rotary. Paul wasn't hungry, wanted to prolong the game, so he selected a swift one from the delivery of Harvel Guttenfelder and socked it into the neighborhood of the Union Tool office. That tied things up and it looked as though
