The Priceless Ingredient, of every purchase is the reputation of the merchant, runs an old adage.

This is particularly true in the purchase of jewelry, watches and precious jewels, where much depends upon the jeweler's judgment and reputation for fair, honest dealings.

Quandt Ranch Is Scene of Old-Time Wild West Show Friday

Torrance Men's Bible Class Entertained at Pioneer Home—stead Following Unique "Stampede"

A Jersey bull bawled a bass greeting to the 150 members of the Torrance Men's Bible class when they met at the Quandt Ranch near Redondo Beach Friday night for a real old-time Wild West show and sing party.

Charles H. Quandt and his sons, Lewis and Carl, were hosts to the visiting class and they had, as assistant greeters, the aforementioned Jersey bull and a herd of heifers. The Quandts ushered their guests into a corral. The heifers ushered them out, via the nearest fence.

The cows, every one of them with horns, according to Vera Zuber, were stampeded in the direction of the incoming guests who made a hurried exit over the fences. Zuber, according to authentic reports, "stood not on the manner of his departure" but went headfirst. Rev. George Elder was equally as graceful in his dive, it is alleged.

Huge Bull Appears

From then on the program around two big bonfires was typically Western, the entertainment consisting of cattle driving, bull dogging, games, rooster fights. (Ben Hannebrink and Vera Zuber were the combatants) tug-of-war, songs and music. The program was supervised by the Quandts. Rev. Elder, G. L. Morris and William Gascoigne. Refreshments, consisting of roasted weiners, coffee, doughnuts and 200 pints of milk donated by the Quandt Brothers, owners of the pioneer dairy farm. One of the outstanding features of the entertainment was the entry of the world's largest Holstein bull and the havoc created by

Spring Is Here, Home Makers!

WHAT IS HOME WITHOUT A GARDEN?

Now Is The Time To Start Planting!

Noteworthy Garden Flowers

The modern garden is planned to include flowers for many purposes—they are a necessary part.

J. H. King, of the King's Nursery at 2287 Carson street.

"One of the flowers that provides color to the garden and lends itself so admirably to artistic indoor arrangement is the salpiglossis. The seeds of these must be sown where the plants are to remain, for it is most difficult to transplant successfully. It grows to a height of about three feet, and may be had in a great variety of colors, and combinations of colors, including blue and gold, crimson and gold, and other beautiful combinations." King said this week.

As a border plant, and for shallow flower bowl arrangement, the Calendula, in the many up-to-date forms, is ideal.

Gallardias are easily grown because they are not particular as to soil or climate, and their bloom is very floriferous, and are very adaptable to the building up of bouquets.

"For background stateliness, and indoor gracefulness, the lovely annual Larkspurs find no peer. They grow to a height of three to four feet, and the long willowy branches lend themselves in delightful fashion to large vase or bouquet arrangement for the interior," the local nurseryman concluded.
