RENO—With the mercury hitting with the 100 mark, "closed door" cases in divorce hour were heard here with doors and windows wide open, and electric fans humming.

WEAVERVILLE—Stepping into a hornet's nest, a pack train of mules, stung by the insects, knocked down a power tower, electrocuted four of the mules and started a forest fire.

Newspaper and Gangster Yarn Developed Into Talkie of Great Interest—"The Lawless Woman"

Constance Bennett, closeup above, will be seen at Warner Bros. San Pedro beginning Sunday. Her picture, "Bought," is an outstanding piece of artistry and Miss Bennett shares honors in it with Ben Lyon.

Playing today and through Saturday, "The Lawless Woman." Something new in this all-talking drama, it combines two popular types of screen stories, the newspaper story and the gangster yarn. Arthur Hoerl, the author, has done a clever job in developing his theme, and Barney Gerard has provided a fine continuity and dialogue. Vera Reynolds is seen in the character of a show-girl who becomes entangled with the far-reaching net of the underworld.

The all San Pedro picture, "Sally Comes Home," will be shown Thursday evening and will be on the screen for a week thereafter. This is also the opening day of "Jubilee Week" in San Pedro. The entire city will participate in this big event and Warner Bros. will have a Fashion Show on the stage Thursday night and many novelties and contests during the week. Sunday, Warner Bros. will present one of the outstanding successes of the season—Constance Bennett in "Bought" with Ben Lyon, Richard Bennett and Dorothy Peterson. One picture you should not miss. The short subjects are of a very interesting nature and include Bobby Jones in "How I Play Golf," "Adventures in Africa," also Warner Bros. News Events.

Fiesta Plans Parade of Stars

A "Billion Dollar Turnout" is title given the motion picture industry's contribution to La Fiesta de Los Angeles, the city's 150th birthday celebration September 4 to 13. This great parade of celebrities is declared the most beautiful night spectacle yet planned on the Coast. Floats like the above will be seen in night electrical pageantry.

No Standing In Line For Opera Tickets; Mail Plan Accepted

The Los Angeles Grand Opera Association is inaugurating a new plan this season whereby the purchase of opera tickets is made easier, than ever before. Instead of waiting for the opening of the box-office and then tiringly standing in a long, warm line while operas, singers, and seat locations are being discussed, you may write now to the offices of the Association, Room 539 Auditorium Building, Los Angeles, for a full descriptive prospectus of the season, with chart of the house, price schedule, and order form. From August 15 to September 1 the association will accept and fill mail orders. Ordering by this method means better seats with less effort. The box-office will open at Barker Bros. September 1. Gaetano Merold, general director of the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association, is greatly pleased over the prospects for the season—new operas, new stars, new conductors, and new ballet, have met with unusually enthusiastic response. The nine operas in the season are: Marouf (first time in Los Angeles), Friday, Oct. 2; Lohengrin, Monday, Oct. 5; Aida, Wednesday, Oct. 7; Tosca, Friday, Oct. 9; Tannhauser, Saturday, Oct. 10; The Masked Ball, Monday, Oct. 12; Carmen, Wednesday, Oct. 14; Die Meistersinger, Thursday, Oct. 15; Il Trovatore, Saturday, Oct. 17.

Unusual Talkies Billed for Week's Showing

Richard Arlen and Peggy Shannon are to be seen at the Fox Plaza theatre Friday and Saturday in "The Secret Call," a thrilling mystery drama built around the life of a telephone operator. Peggy Shannon is a newcomer to the screen from the New York stage and is reported to have taken the throne recently vacated by Clara Bow. A chicken all-talking comedy, "A Foul Affair," and other short subjects are billed for Friday. For Sunday and Monday, Ramon Novarro is to be seen in "Son of India," a thrilling action romance of the far east. Bobby Jones in "The Niblick" will also be offered on this program.

Tuesday and Wednesday brings Barbara Stanwyck in "The Miracle Woman," Sam Hardy, David Mannes and Beryl Moorer are in the supporting cast. A Johnny Kruger swimming novelty subject is among the short subjects offered on this program.

Thursday only brings Victor McLaglen and Jeannette MacDonald in "Annabelle's Affairs," a comedy romance that is just a little naughty but awfully nice. A Billy House comedy entitled "Thou Shalt Not" and the stage attraction of "Forrest Market Nite," are also scheduled.

PISTOL CAPS INJURE BOY
By the United Press
LYONS, Kans.—Caps for a toy pistol, in the pocket of Bobby Henderson, six, were ignited when the boy was wrestling with a playmate. He received painful burns.

SPONGE NECKLACES WORN
By the United Press
PARIS—Sponge necklaces have made their appearance in Paris and are both beautiful and utilitarian. So artistically are they disguised that they can be worn, not only with bathing suits and beach outfits, but also with street costumes, and are excellent for traveling in case the wash cloth has been forgotten.

Barbara Stanwyck Star of "Night Nurse"

Barbara Stanwyck, vividly remembered for her performance in "Illici" comes to the Torrance Theatre Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday as the star of "Night Nurse." Warner Bros. screen adaptation of the sensational novel by Dora Macy.

The stirring sequences of "Night Nurse" follow the life of a girl who comes to a great city hospital as a probationer, and becomes an accredited nurse. She meets temptation in many guises—and also love—and is instrumental in saving the lives of two ill-fated children. "Night Nurse" is unusual and altogether absorbing in its transcription of an actual phase of the life of today.

In support of Miss Stanwyck are Ben Lyon, Joan Blondell, Charles Winninger, Charlotte Merriam, Edward Nugent, Allan Lane, Blanche Friderici, Vera Lewis, Ralf Harlowe, Clark Gable, Walter McGrail and Betty May, Oliver H. P. Garrett did the screen play. Dialogue is by Charles Kenyon. William A. Wellman directed.
